BOROUGH OF ORANGE.
NOTICE is hereby given that the Municipal Council of Orange with the sanction, in writing, of his Excellency the Governor of New South Wales, under his hand, intend to borrow the sum of Two Thousand Pounds at a rate of interest not to exceed £6 per centum per annum, for the purposes of public improvements within the Borough; the principal of such loan to be repayable at a period as may be agreed upon, not exceeding 10 years from the date when the loan is contracted, the interest being in the meantime payable by half-yearly instalments.
It is intended to secure the repayment of the £2000 and interest by the debentures of the said Municipal Council, chargeable on the land, personal estate, and annual revenue, actual or prospective, belonging to the said Municipal Council, subject to the rights of persons already holding debentures of the said body corporate. It has been estimated that the annual income of the municipality, arising from the rates and other sources, at present amounts to at the least £1207 7s 9d, while the interest on existing loans is gradually being reduced at the rate of £200 and interest thereon per annum, thus greatly improving the value of the proposed security as an investment.
Tenders are invited by the Municipal Council from persons willing to advance the whole or any portion of the above sum of £2000 sterling, stating the period (within the above limit) for which they are willing to make the proposed loan, and the rate of interest they are willing to accept for the same.

The Albion (s.) came into collision with the Isabella Pratt, schooner, on 22nd ultimo, off Port Charles, between Tauranga and Auckland, and stove in her side so completely that she sank as soon as clear of the steamer, allowing time for her crew to escape on to the steamer; the Albion's jibboom was carried away, and a large hole, extending partly over three plates, was knocked in on her starboard bow, which was stopped with beds, bagging, &c., and she at once proceeded to Auckland, arriving there the same day. A new plate was inserted in her bow before she proceeded to the Bay of Islands.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY EVENING.

In the Stock and Share market to-day a considerable amount of business was reported. Bank stock was, for the most part, slightly easier: Commercial were sold at 108¾; and New South Wales at 60; Joint Stock had sellers at 17⅞; City, sellers 13⅞; Mercantile were sold at 6¾; New Zealand, sellers 24, and on New Zealand register, sellers 25¾; Union, buyers 67¼, sellers 70; Queensland National, buyers at 8¾, sellers 8⅞. Steam shares underwent no change: Australasian were quitted at 20; Clarence and Richmond, buyers 4¾, sellers 5—preferent stock being held for 14; Hunter River, buyers 6¼, sellers 6¾; North Shore Ferry, buyers 20s, sellers 21s. In Insurance, Australian General were sold at 90s. and 91s.; and Mercantile Mutual at 1s. 3d.: Accident, buyers 1s., sellers 1s. 6d.; Australian Mutual, buyers 8s. 3d.; City Mutual, buyers 11d.: United, sellers 60s.; Sydney Marine, buyers at 42s. 6d., sellers at 43s. 6d. Australian Gaslight were sold at 14¾; New South Wales Shale and Oil at 11s. 6d., 12s. 6d. being asked for the latter at close, and 11s. 3d. offered. Volunteer land orders were firmer, buyers at 187, sellers at 189. Coffee Palace were held for 21s. 6d. In Coal, Bulli had buyers at 10½; Wallsend, sellers at 14; Waratah, buyers at 6¼, sellers at 6¾; Vale of Clwydd, buyers at 19s. 3d., sellers at 19s. 9d. Great Cobar were firmer, being held for 80s., buyers at 78s. For Star of Peace, 6s. asked; Band and Albions Consols were dearer, the week's yield being large; buyers at 5, sellers at 5¼. N. S. W. Funded Stock had buyers at 100; N. S. W. debentures, due 1896-7, were sold at 114½; buyers of 1901-2 at the same figure.

The yield of the Band and Albions Consols for the week ended 5th March amounted to 369 oz. 9 dwts. gold from 637 tons of stone.

Messrs. T. J. Thompson and Son report the yield for the last fortnight from the Queen's Birthday Company, Dunolly, to be 750 oz. 14 dwts. from 900 tons of stone crushed.

By advertisement elsewhere it will be seen that another of our borough councils is taking advantage of the easy state of the money market to raise a loan for municipal purposes. The Orange Corporation is calling for tenders for £2000 worth of 6 per cent. debentures; the interest of the loan to be paid half-yearly, and the principal within ten years.

In the Import markets business was unusually slack to-day; and we hear of little being done which indicates change of values. The tea market is very dull; and the sales made were of an unimportant character. Sugars are firm, and can only be bought at an advance. For breadstuffs the market is quiet, and the heavy arrivals by railway tend to keep down prices. Currants are selling at from 5½d. to 6d. A cablegram has been received from London by a private firm as follows:—"Currants advanced with a further upward tendency," this news bearing out anticipations formed of the prospects of the currant market three months ago. In fish we note sale of a parcel of Cooke's at 7s. 10d. We hear of nothing of importance in the liquor market. One star Hennessy's, to arrive, was sold at 30s. 9d.; three star very scarce, and held for 48s. Pig stout, in quarts, was sold at 9s. 6d., pints are scarce, and worth 7s. 3d. A large line of plate-glass for the Melbourne market was placed at a price withheld. A parcel of Hall's compressed cartridges was sold at equal to 9½d. Cement is firm, and a trade line of Knight Bevan's was quitted at 20s. There was a large supply of forage at the Darling Harbour sales this morning, and prices showed a decline on those obtained on Friday. There was only a small attendance of buyers. Best oaten hay in bundles and trusses fetched from 8s. 6d. to 4s. 3d.; medium, 3s. to 3s. 4d.; best bales, 3s. 6d. to 4s. 6d.; oaten and wheaten bundles, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 1d.; oaten sheaves, 2s. 6d. to 3s.; wheaten ditto, 2s. 8d. to 3s. Lucerne was very dull; only medium qualities were offered, and these realized from 2s. 3d. to 2s. 8d.; straw—bales, 2s. 2d. to 2s. 4d.; bundles, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 8d.; chaff, best samples, 3s. 10d. to 4s. 2d.; medium, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 9d.; maize, 3s. 2½d. and 3s. 3d. per bushel; pumpkins, 1s. 3d. to 3s. 6d. per dozen; potatoes, no good samples offering, were very dull at from 2s. 2d. to 2s. 9d. On the wharfs lucerne remains unsettered. Supplies are still coming forward freely, and quotations remain at £2 10s. to £2 15s. Potatoes are plentiful, and are quoted as follows:—Warrnambool, £3 10s.; Moss Vale, £2 10s. to £3. Butter, 3d. to 6d.; cheese, 4d. to 8d.; bacon, 4d. to 7d.; fowls, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d.; ducks, 2s. 9d. to 3s. 3d.; geese, 5s. to 6s.; turkeys, 6s. to 12s.; millet brooms, 8s. 6d. to 10s.; lard, 4d. to 5d.; honey, 2½d. to 3½d.

At the Homebush fat stock sales to-day, 960 cattle were yarded, chiefly medium to good, with some few prime. One lot of extra prime brought up to £7 4s. About 8000 sheep were penned, chiefly of inferior quality. The best offered brought 6d. advance: other qualities ruling about the same as at the last sales. 53-lb. wethers worth about 9s.: medium wethers from 7s. to 8s. A few cross-bred sheep realised from 11s. 6d. to 12s.

Messrs. Griffiths and Weaver report having sold, on account of Mr. J. S. Smith, his Eurimbla Estate, near Molong, for £6000 cash. Also on account of Mr. J. S. Cobb, in conjunction with Messrs. Spark and Clift, his Dareel Station, in the Maranoa district, Queensland, with 4500 cattle at £5 10s. per head.

The Americans, who have for so long been supplying Great Britain with grain, and to a lesser extent with flour, are now looking for a more extended trade in the manufactured commodity. "We have before noted," says the New York Shipping List, "the large increase in the exportation of flour from this port to Europe in sacks, and a corresponding decrease in the shipment of flour in barrels. This change is, of course, in accordance with economical requirements, since barrels cost more than sacks, and the latter can be repeatedly used, while the former cannot, while the freight on flour in sacks is cheaper than in barrels. Sack flour, moreover, meets with the most favour in Europe, where they are accustomed to that kind of packing. Our sack flour is greatly injuring the business of English millers. It can be exported, weight for weight, as cheaply as wheat; and, as it is worth more, the percentage cost of transportation is lighter. With our cheap wheat and abundant water-power, we can manufacture flour more cheaply than England, and hence our competition in that market ought to become speedily formidable. But, in making flour for the English markets, we must consult their home tastes and prejudices. John Bull is dainty about his bread, and he more willingly pays a fancy price for a choice article than a low price for an indifferent article. The time is probably not remote when we shall gain as firm a foothold for our flour in Europe as we have gained for our wheat there. We are already shipping our sack flour extensively, not only to Great Britain, but to the markets of Germany, France, Holland, and Belgium."

The estate of Mr. Edwin T. Beilby was placed in the Insolvency Court to-day. The liabilities amount to £38,358 9s. 8d., of which £23,250 is secured; the assets to £25,649 12s. 5d.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £1811 3s. 2d.; wine (still), £120 10s. 2d.; wine (sparkling), £38; tobacco and snuff, £7 12s.; tobacco (unmanufactured), £25 10s.; cigars, £20 3s. 2d.; tea, £471 14s. 9d.; coffee and chicory, £143 15s. 3d.; sugar (unrefined), £250 1s., £92 11s. 7d.; malt, £16 8s.; sarsaparilla, £11 13s 11d.; specific duty, £275 13s. 6d.; pilotage, £12 2s. 8d.; harbour and light dues, £18; total, £3319 18s. 2d.

CUTICURA.

BLOOD AND SKIN REMEDIES.

The purification of the vital fluids of foul excretions and inherited humours is the first step in the treatment of Chronic Diseases of the Blood, Skin, and Scalp, with loss of Hair. No remedies in the world of medicines are so sure to cure as the CUTICURA REMEDIES. The CUTICURA RESOLVENT is a searching blood purifier, absorbent and tonic-invigorant, while no external applications can possibly equal the CUTICURA, a Medicinal Jelly, and the CUTICURA SOAPS, prepared from it, for cleansing diseased surfaces, and for the Toilet, Bath, Nursery, and for Shaving.

SALT RHEUM ON BODY AND LIMBS.

OBLIGED TO GO ABOUT ON CRUTCHES.
A WONDERFUL CURE.

Messrs. WEEKS and POTTER: Gentlemen,—In justice to those who may suffer as I have suffered, and as a grateful acknowledgment of the cure I have received from the use of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, I voluntarily make the following statement:—

I have had salt rheum on my body and on one leg in a very aggravated form for eight years. No kind of treatment, or medicine, or doctors, during this time did me any permanent good. My friends in Malden and elsewhere know that I have been a great sufferer, and that my condition at times has been such as to make me despair of ever being able to find a cure, or even a relief. In fact, when I began the use of CUTICURA my limb was so raw and tender that I could not bear my weight on it without the skin cracking and bleeding, and was obliged to go about on crutches. I commenced to use the CUTICURA in April, and at once realized its beneficial effects. It gradually drew the inflammation and humour to the surface, and as fast as it appeared healed it. At times large quantities would come to the surface, causing burning heat, inflammation, swelling, and itching, which, under the constant use of CUTICURA, would rapidly subside and heal. Each time these outbreaks grew less and less severe, and finally disappeared, leaving me perfectly cured. I used the CUTICURA five months, and took the RESOLVENT most of the time, which were the only remedies I used. I think the RESOLVENT a very strengthening and purifying medicine to take in such extreme cases as mine, because the disease is so weakening to the system.

Very gratefully yours, MRS. ASA R. BROWN.

Malden, Mass., October 18, 1878.

SKIN DISEASE.
A SEVERE CASE OF FIVE YEARS' DURATION ENTIRELY CURED.

Messrs. WEEKS and POTTER: Gentlemen,—For the benefit of the world I wish to make this statement. I have been afflicted with a skin disease for about five years, and have tried almost everything

It is difficult to see any prospect of a prompt or friendly settlement of the questions at issue.

The position assumed by the Ministerial party is, to describe it in the most moderate of terms, discreditable to the men who take it, and politically immoral. After agitating the community throughout; after violently attempting to force the Council to accept a subordinate place; after insisting upon the paramount necessity of legislation to solve deadlocks and procure "finality of legislation"; after threatening the country with broken heads and houses in flames if resistance to these designs were continued; after dispatching an "embassy" to England for the purpose of inducing the Imperial Parliament to beat down such resistance by the force of Imperial law, there now comes from the same party a proposal to strengthen the Council by establishing it on the basis of the ratepayers' roll—a basis nearly as broad as that of the Assembly—and this enlargement of the Council's fighting powers is unaccompanied by any scheme for averting deadlocks, or providing for their solution. The objects for the sake of which public affairs were plunged into confusion, and the community was split into parties embittered by the adoption of a policy of revenge, have been coolly sacrificed. Has the history of the so-called Constitutional struggle during the last few years been the history of nothing better than a grim joke attended by ghastly consequences? And is the new turn which the policy of the Government has taken nothing more than a new display of the same sort of humour? Mr. BERRY is professedly tired of the question, and anxious to see it settled. From the course which he has taken, however, it might be inferred, without unfairness, that the raising of the question and the settlement of it were alike matters of personal or party convenience rather than of public interest. At the present moment his words go to show that it would be the preferable thing to bring the dispute to an end; but his action is suggestive of a belief that, if the contest can be renewed under the right conditions, political capital may still be made out of it.

The policy of strengthening the Upper House by widening its basis is a sound one. The weakness of the Victorian Council hitherto has consisted in the fact that, being an elective body, it represented a class only. Thus, even when it was defending the broad interests of law and order and constitutional government against revolutionary violence in the Assembly, it was exposed to the taunt that it was advocating class interests. And although a House so constituted may, when attacked upon a question of privilege, fall back behind the lines of entrenchment marked out by the law, the strength of its resistance upon questions of public policy is comparatively slight. What is required at the hands of a Second Chamber is the power of enforcing the serious reconsideration of questions of general interest when, by a combination of circumstances, the Assembly has treated them with insufficient care or on false principles, or in such a way as to prejudice the public weal. But this important work cannot be performed with the efficiency that is to be desired if the Second Chamber can be charged with only representing a narrow class. The idea of having numbers represented in the one Chamber and property in the other is a mistaken one, because by segregating property, and ranging it even apparently in opposition to numbers, it lessens the influence which property ought to wield, and would wield under more healthy conditions.

The strengthening of the Upper House, however, in one direction can hardly fail to increase its powers in another. A Second Chamber which would have better ground for resisting the Assembly on questions of policy than the present Council has would also have command of a better battleground in the event of any dispute about a question of etiquette, courtesy, or privilege. Hitherto the old idea of the Ministerial party was sound, namely, that the Assembly ought to be able to carry its policy through with a rush, it is not very likely to take effect with a Second Chamber which happened to entertain views differing from those of the Assembly, and claimed an absolutely equal right, on the ground of representing the people, to enforce them. A conflict between two Houses that stood up as Greek and Greek would be a tug of war indeed. And in omitting to provide for the solution of possible deadlocks the Ministry has shown either a remarkable forgetfulness of what its party so strongly contended for or a singular readiness to admit that its late demands, though urgent, were frivolous and vain. The omission of any movement in this direction points either to a failure of perceptive powers or to an unacknowledged belief that legislative disputes and difficulties supply opportunities and careers for scheming and unscrupulous politicians. With automatic machinery, working smoothly at every point, where would be the work or pay for tinkering engineers?

The presentation to the members of the late Council of Education made by the officers and teachers of the Department last Saturday was a fitting acknowledgment of the services rendered to the public by that body, whose functions have been transferred to the new Minister. At the close of the first quarter of its existence, on the 31st March, 1867, the Council had a gross enrolment of 47,663, and an average daily attendance of 30,293 children in all the schools of which they were placed in charge. When they presented their final report for the quarter ending on the 31st of last March the enrolment had risen to 101,534, and the average attendance to 69,090. Taken in proportion to the estimated population at the two dates the enrolment had risen from the rate of 11 to 14 per cent., and the average attendance from 7 to 9¾ per cent. of the whole number of inhabitants within the colony. For so sparsely peopled a country as New South Wales this is substantial progress, although it falls far below the results attained in Victoria, New Zealand, Queensland, the United Kingdom, and even in our own colony during the short time for which the new Act has been in operation. The expenditure of the Council for these results reached the sum of £2,358,801 from public funds, and £670,246 from children's fees, making a total of over three millions sterling during their term of thirteen and a quarter years. For gratuitous, and often arduous labour, the public owe thanks to the successive members of the Board, who managed our Primary schools with tact and moderation during a period of transition. Whatever ground there may be for the fears of Professor SMITH for the future we fully endorse his hope that "our cherished schools may never have the fresh, buoyant life crushed out of them by the remorseless jaws of officialism, and that liberality of expenditure may never degenerate into such extravagance as might cause a revulsion in popular feeling towards unwise parsimony." Till the colony has been covered with schools, the cost of building must necessarily be great; but there is sufficient room for economy of administration, without the danger of niggardly parsimony.

Telegrams lately received from Calcutta announce the trial of twenty-seven ringleaders of the plot at Kolhapur to massacre all the Europeans in that State. There is an apparent submission to British authority throughout British India; but beneath the calm surface of affairs a latent element exists of disaffection at all times dangerous to the European residents of one or other of the Principalities. One of the many difficulties with which the Government of India has to deal is the native belief that the Hindoo will yet be liberated from the yoke of the conqueror. This idea rarely modifies itself in the minds either of rajah or ryot, and the hope keeps alive a sentiment which takes, almost periodically, the shape of incipient rebellion, conceived by people notorious for their subtlety and their cruelty in victory. The latest instance of an attempt at what may be considered revenge by the governing power, but patriotism by the sympathisers of the movement, is the Kolhapur conspiracy. The State which bears this name came under the authority of the British in the usual way—that is, with respect to annexation in India. After a series of wars with other States, extending over two centuries, an insurrection occurred at Kolhapur in 1844, which led to the armed intervention of the Bombay Government, and up to the present moment the rajahs have been more or less protected by British influence, represented by a British resident. The conspiracy was not, as far as can be seen, instigated by any oppression on the part of the Protectorate; indeed, except for purposes of police, the Europeans were not in any way even repressive, but the native officers of the State were regarded with repugnance, and the conspiracy was as much against them as it was against the British residents. The attempt was happily discovered before it came to maturity. The modus operandi intended was, however, peculiar. The circumstances as detailed at the preliminary investigation have about them a semblance of that kind of romance which furnishes many a novelist with a startling plot. The leader was a Brahmin, resident of Kolhapur, named RAMBHAT, who commenced his treasonable operations in the early part of 1880. One of the earlier rulers of Kolhapur, CHIMA SAIB, took part against the British in 1857; and on being captured was sent to Kurrachee as a State prisoner, where he remained until 1867, when he died. There is a belief entertained by the more ignorant of the inhabitants that he still lives, and RAMBHAT resolved to trade on this belief, and set up the authority of the dethroned Maharajah as a rallying point. Seditious meetings were held, arms were collected and concealed, and the conspiracy developed into a well-conceived plot for the extinction of the British power in that district, and the murder of those native officials whose death was necessary. It was arranged that on the 31st October the European population should be murdered while attending Divine service in the Protestant church, and the gaining over of the Kolhapur contingent was part of the plan. These events were to be followed by a general loot of the city, the severance of the telegraph wires, the sack of the post-office and treasury, and the deposition of the present Maharajah. A heavy fall of rain, on Sunday, the 31st October, prevented the carrying out of this plan, and it was postponed till the following Sunday, November 7; but in the meantime everything was discovered, and the ringleaders arrested, who are now on their trial at Bombay.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

FROM our cablegrams of this morning it will be seen that a terrible earthquake has taken place at the Island of Ischia, which has occasioned great loss of life, and immense destruction of property. No less than a hundred persons were killed, and large numbers seriously maimed. Ischia is situated at the north-west extremity of the Bay of Naples. In 1871 it had a population of 72,000. At the Transvaal wet weather continues, and this, together with the flooded state of the country, has put a stop to active military operations for the present. In Ireland the Land League is still agitating for a reform of the land laws. At Westmeath, another murder has been committed, which is believed to be an agrarian crime.

WITH 42 runs to the good at the end of the first innings, it was generally agreed that the Combined Team had a very good chance of winning the match against the Australian Eleven, and as in the second innings they have added no less than 289 to this, there are few who imagine that the Australian Eleven have much chance of securing a victory, especially as three of their wickets have fallen for 10 runs. The cricket yesterday may very fairly be described as the best ever seen in Sydney, the batting of the Combined Team being first-class. The correctness of this remark may be seen from the fact that Spofforth, the demon bowler, whose feats with the ball were the terror of English batsmen, was unable to secure a wicket, although he bowled 172 balls, and 92 runs were scored off him. As will be seen from the detailed report in another column, the Australian Eleven have seven wickets to fall, and 322 runs to get to win. The match will be continued to-day.

ONE of the first and largest of the nuggets of gold found on the diggings at Mount Poole has been brought into Sydney, and Mr. J. Mandelson, to whom the specimen belongs, has expressed his intention of shortly placing it on exhibition in the city. The nugget weighs over 7½ ounces, has a rich colour, and merits the recommendation of being in every way a particularly fine specimen. It is much waterworn. It has been brought to Sydney via Bourke, the route it is intended shall become that by means of which the journey can be most comfortably accomplished. On Wednesday last a party started out from Bourke, with the intention of surveying the road thence to the new diggings, and it is anticipated that news of their return, and notes from the report they make, will soon be made public. The route of travellers going this way will be by rail to Dubbo, by Cobb and Co.'s coaches to Bourke, and thence for 280 miles to the goldfield.

A STRONG effort is to be made to erect the splendid organ constructed by Messrs. Foster and Andrews for the great hall of our University in its appointed place in the gallery in time for next commemoration day. The organ is announced, we understand, as ready for shipment, but the expenses over and above the original cost (the latter having been mainly defrayed by Sir Patrick Jennings's munificent donation of £1100), which will require to be provided for, amount to about £600. This sum it is proposed to raise by subscriptions, in the first instance, of members of the University. A meeting for this purpose is announced in our advertising columns, at the Jury Court, King-street, on Wednesday, the 9th instant.

THE usual quarterly meeting of the City Council is to be held at the Town Hall, at noon to-morrow. Amongst the business set down for disposal is a motion by Alderman Young, to the effect that the Corporation books for the past seven years be audited by Mr. Carroll, the City Auditor; and a motion by Alderman Hordern, that a bill to repeal such sections of the Sydney Corporation Act of 1879 as refer to paving of the footpaths of the city be prepared and submitted to Parliament as soon as possible. Alderman Moore has a motion for the appointment of a special committee of the whole of the Council to take evidence and report on the management of the City Engineer's department, including the Botany works, and to complete the inquiries commenced and partly reported on by the Finance Committee. The business paper is a lengthy one, and there is a number of other important resolutions to be considered, besides the disposal of the lease of the northern portion of the Lime-street wharf.

IN the Banco Court, yesterday, the application for a rule nisi to set aside the nonsuit, and to grant a new trial in Heaton v. Richards, was refused. The application for a new trial in Campbell v. the Commercial Bank—a case of interest to business men—was proceeded with, and was not concluded when the Court rose.

YESTERDAY was a rather heavy day at the Central Police Court. Mr. Crane opened the Court at 9 o'clock, and disposed of about fifty persons who, having been locked up for drunkenness; pleaded guilty; and at 10, leaving the criminal side of the Court in the hands of the unpaid, opened the Small Debts Court, which at 1 o'clock he adjourned until 3. At 2, the great unpaid, not having returned, eight or nine prisoners being yet in the dock, Mr. Crane took up the cases, dealing with five and remanding the four. The Small Debts Court is a serious hindrance to the progress of the police business. The summons cases were heard partly in the hall of the Court and partly in the inconvenient and confined room formerly called the Magistrates' Room.

THE third of a series of ten popular science lectures was delivered, in the City Mission schoolroom, corner of Liverpool and Sussex streets, last night, by Mr. J. H. Maiden, of London. Mr. John Sutherland, M.L.A., president of the School of Arts, occupied the chair, and introduced the lecturer in a few suitable words. Mr. Maiden chose as his subject, "Mechanical Physics," and, in a simple but effective manner, detailed the various mechanical powers, and with the numerous beautiful models obtained from the Technical College of the School of Arts gave examples of their application. The lecture was interesting and instructive, but to many of the intelligent artizans present it must have appeared rather too simple. The next lecture will be given on Monday night.

A MEETING of the committee and other persons interested in the celebration of St. Patrick's Day by a banquet was held last night, at Punch's Hotel. Mr. J. P. Garvan, M.L.A., occupied the chair. The banquet will take place at the Masonic Hall, and the catering has been placed in the hands of Mr. Smith. The committee are working very hard to make this year's celebration eclipse any of the previous anniversaries. A large number of tickets have already been disposed of.

THE annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held last night, in the Masonic Hall; Sir G. Wigram Allen in the chair. The attendance was not large. An interesting and satisfactory report was read and adopted, and the usual resolutions were moved and agreed to, the speakers being Rev. Dr. Clay, Rev. G. Woolnough, Rev. Dr. Steel, and Rev. W. G. Lawes. An interesting feature of the meeting was the singing of a choir, accompanied by the music of a harmonium, presided over by Mr. Sharp.

AT a meeting of the residents of Canterbury last evening, in reference to the route of the proposed Illawarra railway, it was decided to urge the Government to adopt a route diverging from the present main line near Petersham to and by the old Canterbury sugar works, there crossing Cook's River, and proceeding by Cup-and-Saucer Creek on to the west of Bexley heights, as the best and cheapest route that could be selected.

THE members of the Loyal Prince Alfred Lodge, I.O.O.F., entertained Dr. Shiels at a supper at Bega on Saturday evening, and presented him with a testimonial consisting of three handsome and costly silver articles, and a handsome illuminated address in a gilt frame, as a mark of respect, and in recognition of the many services, professional and otherwise, which he has rendered to the lodge during the time he has been medical officer—a period of thirteen years. Some of the magistrates, clergy, and leading residents were present to do honour to the recipient.

THE Maories are giving further evidence of attaining to a high state of civilization, as we read in the New Zealand Times:—"The native Hemi Natana, who fired the Mongonui police station, has been committed for trial on a charge of arson. The native Te Pana Rawiri has been committed for trial on a charge of forgery and uttering a valueless cheque."

DR. HURST, son of the Rev. G. Hurst, after a successful career in the Sydney University, where he obtained several scholarships, and was nominated for the "Gilchrist Scholarship," having obtained a medical degree, with honours in the University of Edinburgh, and having won a similar degree in the London University, is on his way out to practise his profession in this colony. It is said that Dr. Hurst intends to settle in Sydney.

"THE residents of Parramatta," says a correspondent, "are earnestly looking to Sir Henry Parkes and the Ministry to restore to their city the honours and privileges they enjoyed for more than 51 years, namely, from the year 1802, when the Governor's house there was built, and the beautiful park laid out by Governor King, to the time of Sir William Denison, 1855. It was the permanent abode of Governor Sir Thomas Brisbane and his family, and the constant pleasurable retreat for health and change for all the Governors during those 50 years. The people of Parramatta feel it a great injustice to withhold from them any longer this privilege, so much prized, and an ungracious and unfeeling spirit of parsimony not to afford to the Governors this delightful, healthful change, and more especially so when so much has been spent on the adornment of the Colonial Secretary's chambers."

THE "Australian Handbook for 1881," issued by Gordon and Gotch, is superior in merit even to that of 1880, excellent as it was. That it is well arranged, well printed, and well bound will be understood by all who in past years have taken the book; and those who have had occasion to refer to it frequently must recognise the mass of varied and useful information it contains. The new features in the present volume are Skerre's map of continental Australia—a new chart, whose details are brought up to the present time. The statistics, &c., of each colony have been carefully revised and corrected up to the latest possible date, and every care seems to have been taken to render the book complete in every detail.

MESSRS. RIDGATE AND SON'S stock was insured in the Union Insurance Company of New Zealand for £600, and the building was covered in the Commercial Union and Netherlands-India offices for £1100. In our report of the fire, yesterday, we stated that No. 2 Volunteer Insurance Company started a plug in Riley-street, and did good service. It should have been No. 1 Royal Alfred Australian Fire Company, which was under the direction of Mr. C. Israel.

ON Saturday night, as the boatswain of the steamer Bowen was proceeding to his ship, lying at Smith's Wharf, he was set upon by a number of larrikins, and received some very rough treatment at their hands. One of them struck him a severe blow with a stone in the eye. We believe this is not the first time that persons have been assaulted in that part of the city.

WHILST standing on the tramway platform at Randwick, on Sunday night, waiting for the tram to start, Mrs. Warden, residing at Surry Hills, tripped, fell, and broke her left arm. She was taken in the care to the Captain Cook Hotel, and thence in a cab to her own residence.

THE steward of the steamer Merksworth, James M'Kellar, was taken to the Infirmary yesterday morning, suffering from injuries to his head, received through falling down the after-hold of that vessel on Saturday night. After the occurrence M'Kellar did not appear to be much injured, but on Sunday he was very dull in his manner; and, as the vessel was about to go to sea, the master deemed it advisable to have him removed to the Infirmary. He was admitted, and, on being examined, the only injuries noticeable were two bruises on the forehead.

"THE Age Annual: a political and statistical register of the colony of Victoria" is issued from the office of the Melbourne Age, and has now reached its seventh periodical issue. It contains over 150 pages of official and general information relating to the neighbouring colony, with a few general facts of useful reference applying to the whole of the colonies, such as the list of governors, governors' salaries, Australasian statistics, &c. There is a considerable amount of new matter inserted in the present volume, viz., an account of the opening of and other particulars relating to the Melbourne International Exhibition; the gold raised in Victoria, coined, and exported to date; the breadstuffs imported, and the wool grown and exported, from 1836 to December 31st, 1879, and the land systems of the whole of the Australasian colonies. Unfortunately, in nearly all colonial works of this kind, sufficient care is not taken to bring the information down to date, and the value of the book for purposes of reference is thereby practically destroyed. For instance, in this work we have an article on the land system of New South Wales (abridged from the Victorian Year Book), from the pen of Mr. W. W. Stephen, who is spoken of as Under-Secretary for Lands, although he ceased to occupy that position several months ago, and in this article we are told that our public lands are controlled under the Acts of 1861 and 1875. This was doubtless the case when Mr. Stephen compiled the information a year ago, but in a work issued in 1881 we are entitled to expect some reference to be made to the amendments made in our Land Act of May, 1880.

WE learn from the Argus that the Melbourne Presbytery was occupied the whole of Tuesday in discussing the case of the Rev. Charles Strong, of Scots' Church. The Rev. D. S. M'Eachran opened the sub ject, and in a long speech traversed Mr. Strong's article on "The Atonement," which appeared in the October number of the Victorian Review, quoting a number of passages which he condemned, by implication, as being heretical. He moved that, as this article had caused serious uneasiness to many ministers and members of the Church, the presbytery resolve that an opportunity be afforded Mr. Strong to confer with them, in the hope that he might give a satisfactory explanation. This was seconded by the Rev. R. Hamilton. Mr. Strong protested against the whole proceedings as being irregular, pointing out that he had never until now heard what the real charges against him were. A long discussion ensued, but it was chiefly devoted to the elucidation of the rules and points of order. Several amendments were proposed and negatived, and ultimately Mr. M'Eachran withdrew his motion in favour of a proposition by the Rev. M. Macdonald, that a committee be appointed to examine the article in question, and to report on the same to a future meeting of the presbytery, and this was carried. There was, however, considerable difficulty experienced in the formation of the committee, those who seemed to lean towards Mr. Strong declining to take part in the proceedings, and the list could only be completed by inserting the names of a number of absent gentlemen.

ANY person attending the Land Court of Inquiry held at Goulburn, on Tuesday and Wednesday (observes the Southern Argus), could not fail to be struck at the strange interpretations which several of the clauses of the Land Act are capable of bearing. Several cases were heard before Mr. Commissioner King, and frequently the representative of the Lands Department and the legal gentlemen present were at variance on the questions raised. Diversity of opinion exists amongst them especially on one important point. It turned up in the course of several inquiries that the residence clause was not regarded as being fulfilled, and the selectors, "as an excuse for" not complying, said that in these cases, taking up their selections in virtue of a freehold which had been in most instances purchased from a third party, who had resided thereon for the required time, they were under the impression no further residence was demanded from them. To their surprise and confusion they were informed by Mr. King that the selections would be recommended for forfeiture. At the same time this gentleman gave the conditional purchasers to understand that he would point out the mistake made, and recommend their case to the mercy of the Minister for Lands. It was contended by Messrs. Gannon and Betts, on those occasions when they appeared for clients in the condition we speak of, that the land laws required no such thing of the selectors as that pointed out by the Commissioner.

As might be anticipated (observes the Carcoar Chronicle), the opening of Mr. Death's land at King's Plains for gold-mining caused considerable excitement in Blayney and the vicinity of Mr. Death's residence last week. Fully 150 persons were present near the ground on Monday evening, and speculation was rife as to the results of Tuesday, the date fixed for throwing open the land. By 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning between 200 and 300 persons were on the ground, and a general rush for licenses was made to the office which had been temporarily erected. The proceedings were, however, conducted in the most orderly manner possible, and the greatest harmony prevailed among the diggers, who appeared well satisfied with the terms and rules laid down by Mr. Death, with but one exception, that compelling the men to fill up abandoned holes or forfeit £1. The license fee was fixed at £1 per month, or any part of a month; the claims along the supposed line of the lead were marked out five in width, each two men's ground, being 60 feet by 60 feet. In the paddock adjoining Mr. M'Phillamy's ground, on the north side of the road from Blayney to Bathurst, 109 claims had been marked off, and in the paddock on the south side of the road 79 other claims. Between 9 o'clock and 1 o'clock 65 licenses had been issued to the public in the paddock on the north side, but none were applied for on the southern side. The sinking averages from 8 to 14 feet, and the washdirt is of a gravelly nature. The total area of land to be tested is 122 acres. No Chinese are permitted to carry on business or mine for gold on the estate. In one claim, when the sinking was about 15 feet, 1 gr. to the dish was obtained, and we heard of another claim getting ½ gr. to the dish; other sinkings were duffered out, and the holes filled up.

A FINE specimen of the Murray cod (says the Border Post) was caught by George Knobel, of Thurgoona, last Wednesday. Having measured the fish we can vouch for the following dimensions: length 4 feet, circumference round girth 34 inches, and weight 70 lbs. The capacious maw of the monster was as nearly as possible one foot square.

AS an instance of the manner in which bush fires are caused by sparks from passing locomotives, the Greytown correspondent of the N.Z. Times sends the following:—"Being recently on a visit with some friends to a bush farm in the vicinity of Carterton, conversation ran very much upon bush fires, their causes, effects, &c., and our host asked us to watch what might possibly follow the transit of a train then about due along the line. The train passed; a steaming cloud of fiery sparks issued from the funnel of the engine, the wind carrying them near where the party stood. One spark, in full flare, nearly as large as a walnut, settled in the mortice-hole of a post in the fencing. In half an hour the post was in a blaze; and, but for the alacrity displayed in fetching water and at once extinguishing it, much of the fencing (totara) would certainly have been destroyed.

THE Fremantle Herald of February 19 says:—"In this week's issue of the Gazette is published a list of applications for pastoral lands in the Kimberley district, showing how each has been dealt with. Some of the applicants have been very fortunate, and some the reverse. Thus, Mr. J. H. Monger has succeeded in obtaining 500,000 acres, and Mr. Marmion gets about 350,000 acres, while the names of other gentlemen appear only in the list of applications declined, among which is that of the Duke of Manchester. We believe that about 3,000,000 of acres were applied for, and if the rents be paid for the lands which have been granted they will add about £4000 a year to the general revenue."

THE Rockhampton Bulletin says:—"Messrs. M'Ilwraith, M'Eachern, and Co. have chartered the steamer Barcelona, which will leave London next month, provided the refrigerator is ready. It is possible, however, one of the character required may not be ready, and in that event the steamer Cantata will be substituted, to leave in May. Messrs. M'Ilwraith, M'Eachern, and Co. have had constructed to their order at Derby a refrigerator adapted for the meat trade. It was tried in a large chamber erected outside, where the insulation was most imperfect, yet its success was quite complete. It will afford 24,000 cubic feet of space, and an average temperature can be maintained of about 5 degrees Fahrenheit. They are sending this machine to Brisbane, where it is to be fitted up. The firm have just given orders for three other refrigerators of the same kind for prosecuting the meat trade."

FISCHER, the victim of the attempted murder at Eeyeuk (the Mortlake Dispatch states), is now out of danger, and progressing rapidly towards recovery. Over 150 grains of shot have been actually counted as having entered his head, arms, body, and leg, and it is probable that he has received over 200 altogether. His escape from death under the circumstances may be regarded as almost miraculous. Both eyes have been injured, the shot having grazed one eye and penetrated the ball of the other.

THE following particulars of the shipment of meat sent from Melbourne to England by the steamer Protos have been received by the Argus:—"The steamer Protos, with a shipment of Australian meat, arrived on the afternoon of January 20, and a number of Australians immediately went on board. When the meat salesmen inspected the meat it was found to be in excellent condition. Five hundred carcases of sheep were at once sent to Smithfield, and all were sold before 8 a.m. on the 21st, and more sent for. The price was nearly 7½d. per lb., being but 1½d. less than the primest Scotch and 1d. more than American. Amongst the reasons given for these high prices are—first, the good quality of the meat, it being dry, clean, and free from stain; secondly, the snowstorms throughout England preventing the receipt of the usual supplies from the provinces, and causing a scarcity in the meat in London; and, thirdly, that all the meat in the market being frozen, it prevented unfavourable comparisons between the appearance of the Australian and the British meat. All the meat has been sold since at an average price of 6¾d. per lb. All was disposed of prior to the break up of the frost, and therefore under favourable circumstances. Since the thaw the meat has been perfectly good, but its good quality caused the gravy to work into fat, already porous through frost, and to discolour it. The experiment is voted on all sides a great success. There is no complaint from butchers who were purchasers. A carcase was sent as a present to the Lord Mayor of London. The engine on board the Protos worked well throughout the voyage, keeping the temperature easily eight degrees below freezing point. The price realized for the meat would be even higher had not the carcases of some sheep been placed in the cold chamber of the Protos before they had been frozen stiffly and become pressed by others into unsightly shapes. The engineer suggests many improvements in future shipments. He recommends many smaller chambers hermetically sealed. The Protos was nearly wrecked off the Isle of Wight in a great storm. The few quarters of beef sent home were highly praised, and voted the best-grown beef in the market. They realized 7d. per lb. The butter placed on the market was pronounced rank, but some few tons are already sold at 1s. per lb." [We have since heard by cable that the butter was disposed of to great advantage, and was in splendid condition.]

THE directors and officers of the Sydney Permanent Freehold Land and Building Society, with members of their families, passed a pleasant time together on Saturday. They first dined at the coffee palace near the Circular Quay, and then embarked on board a steamer, in which they visited Biloela, Five Dock, Lane Cove, Mosman's Bay, and other places in and near the harbour, returning to the quay at about 6 p.m. One of the most agreeable circumstances of the reunion was the presentation, on behalf of the directors, to Mr. Watkin of a purse containing 100 guineas, as a mark of their appreciation of the manner in which he had performed his duties as manager of the Building Society, for which Mr. Watkin returned thanks, and said he believed the Sydney Permanent would eventually take the first place of building societies in New South Wales.

THE following is the report of the Sydney Infirmary for the week ended 5th March, 1881:—Admitted, 33 males, 18 females—total, 51; discharged, 36 males, 11 females—total, 47; died, 5 males—total, 5; remaining, 128 males, 52 females—total, 180.

IN the second paragraph of our article of Monday on the tariffs of the United Kingdom and the Australian colonies, for "14,639,000" miscellaneous revenue of Great Britain read "£13,439,000."

THE REV. CHARLES STRONG ON THE BROAD CHURCH MOVEMENT.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

The Rev. Charles Strong preached in the Scots' Church last night on the "true broad Church movement." In the course of his remarks he said,—"The Church, we know, has often contented itself with the external, the formal, the legal. We know the dulling, deadening tendency of ecclesiasticism; the official professional atmosphere that is generated round ministers and Churches, and their beliefs and practice. Well, then, the broad movement is the movement of the spiritual to be delivered from this. It is the soul and the heart waking up, amid the legalism and bigotry and hard liberalism of the Church, to feel more deeply what religion is."

THE HUNTER RIVER STEAMERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I was one of several travellers that came from Tamworth to Newcastle on Saturday last, bound for Sydney, and, therefore, one who was grievously chagrined on finding that there was no boat for Sydney on that particular night, and that a detention of 24 hours in Newcastle was inevitable. I may inform you that for years it has been the custom to dispatch a steamer each Saturday night from Newcastle to Sydney. When the Newcastle Steamship Company commenced to run the Kembla in opposition to the boats of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company and the Hunter River Company, two boats left Newcastle for Sydney each Saturday night, and they were generally well patronized, the last day of the week being considered the most convenient to visit the metropolis. But the Australasian Steam Navigation Company's Hunter River boats have been purchased by the Newcastle Company, and at present two companies are left to perform the service. I humbly advance the opinion that it is not creditable to these that they should so inconvenience residents of the north, as in the case of last Saturday.

I learned in Newcastle that the somewhat extraordinary action of withdrawing the only means of reaching Sydney speedily was not due to any emergency. Advertisements had appeared in the Newcastle and Maitland journals stating that no boat would be dispatched on Saturday; but, Sir, persons north of these places knew nothing whatever of the intention of the companies, and several being ignorant of it travelled hundreds of miles to Newcastle. These would-be passengers to Sydney were also mortified to find that two steamers had sailed for Sydney throughout the day, one in the morning, the other at 7 o'clock in the evening (about three hours before the mail train arrived); and it is also noteworthy that two boats left Sydney for Newcastle on Saturday night.

I am too old a traveller to grumble without cause, and do not think that my complaint in this case is unreasonable. The fact that advertisements were inserted may be accepted as a proof that the companies had ample time to procure a boat if such course were necessary. It may be that the companies are struggling to force upon the Legislature the urgent necessity which exists for a railway between the metropolis and Newcastle, or, perhaps, they are of opinion that a fast-and-loose game may be played at discretion, the public of course being on the weak side. These are matters about which I am dubious; but, Sir, I have no doubt whatever concerning one phase of the question which is that I lost twenty-four hours of valuable time between Saturday evening and Monday morning. Yours, &c.,

Sydney, March 7. A TRAVELLER.

SEVERE WEATHER in the UNITED KINGDOM.

The London correspondent of the Argus gives an account of the severe winter which passed over England during the end of the last and the beginning of the present year, in which he gives a list of casualties caused by the frost that will give a very vivid idea of the intensity of the cold. He writes:—

"The death-roll from the frost and snow swells daily, and when completed it will probably be found that the victims numbered 100 in the metropolis. There have been a large number of inquests. Persons in all conditions of life succumbed to apoplexy, heart disease, and other ailments arising from exposure to the cold. Frequent deaths from exposure continue to be reported daily from different parts of the country. Twenty-four fatal calamities occurred on Wiltshire Downs. Three men, with three horses attached to coal carts, were dug out of the snow near Marlborough, all frozen to death. A boy with them was saved. Near Devizes a man in charge of a waggon and four horses was lost, but the horses were rescued alive. A shepherd was found standing upright in the snow, but quite dead, with his hands over his head. Another man was frozen to death in an outhouse. A flock of 400 sheep, with a shepherd and dog, were lost for 24 hours, and afterwards found dead. A carter perished on the roadside; his horses, being loosed from the cart, were found embedded in the snow. Four deaths occurred on Salisbury Plain, including two shepherds. Another farmer lost 300 sheep in the snow, which in some places was 20 feet deep. Three apprentices left Calne on Tuesday, and have not since been heard of. Six persons were discovered dead in a snowdrift. A labourer was frozen to death near Abingdon; and a man, belonging to Derby, was found in a dying state on the road near Burton-on-Trent, and succumbed to the cold. A man missing from Haddenham was found frozen to death in a ditch near the Thames. Another herdsman perished in the fields in the snow, near Royston. An old woman was frozen to death in a ditch near Bicester. A man, aged 70, was frozen to death while driving from Shrivenham to Highworth. Seven men who were missed from Tavistock were reported to be lost on Dartmoor, where the snow in places was 12 feet deep. Two passengers who were snowed up in a train on Tuesday night, between Dowlais and Rhymey, succumbed to the exposure. A bargeman on the Thames was frozen to death. At Swindon a man perished within a hundred yards of his cottage. Four men in charge of a traction engine passed through Buckingham on Tuesday morning, and reached Deanshanner, where they were compelled to leave the engine, and have not since been heard of. The driver of the mailcart at Ashburn, with two assistants, has perished, and four men have been found dead at Leicester. A labourer near New Bury, a farmer's son near Welshpool, and several other persons, perished in the snow. It is feared that the thaw will reveal many more fatalities, as abandoned vehicles are scattered about the country, and many persons are still missing. At Plymouth for upwards of a week the residents suffered from water famine through the freezing of the stream which feeds the town reservoir. Hundreds of soldiers and labourers were employed to open the channel through the ice and snow, but the water froze as fast as it was uncovered."

LOSSES OF AN ENGLISH FARMER.—A writer in the Chester Chronicle says:—"I must confess I hear the most distressing stories from farmers who have tried their very best, and failed to make both ends meet. Their cry is, the land is too heavily burdened to farm with success. On Saturday I met a tenant farmer—young, energetic, cultivated, possessed of fair means, and a well-known prize-taker for cattle at many of our local shows. If anyone could cultivate a Cheshire farm to advantage he ought to be able to do so, and I put the question to him frankly—'Does farming pay you?' He replied, 'No.' I said, 'Why?' 'Well,' he replied, 'it will pay no one under the present circumstances. My neighbours are giving up their farms fairly beaten, and I should feel grateful if I were out of mine at this moment. I daresay I have invested upon it in one form or another at least £3000, and I am £400 worse off than I was when I began to farm it four years ago.' 'I pay, I think,' he said, '£2 10s. an acre, or £2 5s.; it is a fair farm. I rise every morning at 4.30, and send my milk away to a neighbouring town. My wife distributes the groceries and household requirements as if we lived in the Union.' I smiled. 'It is a fact,' he continued, 'We don't live on the old-fashioned principle of plenty, in vogue amongst most of our English farmers. Everything is kept under lock and key; the soap, the bread, the sugar—everything is served out in quantities my wife finds necessary; economy is rigidly practised. I manure my land liberally, I spare no pains from early morn to late at night to pay my way—and I am £400 worse off now than I was four years ago.'"

THE AUSTRALIAN ELEVEN v. NEW SOUTH WALES AND VICTORIA.

THIRD DAY.

Fine weather and the prospect of interesting cricket resulted in another large attendance of spectators at the Association Ground yesterday, the number present being estimated at 8000, or about the same as on the third day of the Intercolonial contest. The play was watched all through with the deepest interest, and the success with which the Combined Team batted gave evident satisfaction. When the game ceased on Saturday the Combined Team had lost two wickets for 74, and the batting was so good yesterday that the representatives of New South Wales and Victoria were not disposed of until the large total of 289 runs had been compiled. The wickets were in better order than was expected, and, with the aid of an excellent light, the batsmen played all the opposing bowlers with comparative ease. Horan and Evans, who resumed their innings, brought the score up to 112, when the New South Welshmen retired, making way for Garrett. Runs then began to come freely, and it was not until the score had increased to 137 that Horan, after a fine innings of 49, was disposed of by Alexander. Midwinter, who succeeded him, played with more freedom than he usually exhibits, and being well backed up by Garrett, the bowling was soon collared. Garrett retired after an excellent contribution of 34, and M'Shane, after a free innings for 22, was also compelled to sever his partnership with Midwinter. Young Edwards, too, rendered good service, and when he was run out the score stood at 240, with seven wickets down. The end, however, seemed as far off as ever, for Gregory made another stand with Midwinter, and it was not until 250 had been posted on the scoring board that the Victorian batsman succumbed. Midwinter's innings was one of the best of the day, and elicited hearty applause from the spectators, who, it may here be stated, showed strong sympathy with the Combined Team. Gregory was caught after a good vigorous innings for 25, and the innings closed soon afterwards, Elliott carrying his bat out for a well-made 13. The bowling and fielding of the Australian team were, on the whole, good, though some mistakes were made in the latter department, and it must be conceded that everyone worked hard to keep down the score. The batting, however, was too strong, and even Spofforth who has proved himself irresistible against some of the best English teams, was fearfully knocked about, without having the satisfaction of securing a solitary wicket. With only half-an-hour to play, Spofforth and A. Bannerman went in to open the second innings of the Australian team, but the former was summarily disposed of by a catch at mid-off, and Groube, who succeeded him, was caught at short leg before he could score. Bannerman was also sent back to the pavilion immediately afterwards; and when the stumps were drawn Murdock and Slight were in, and the score stood at 3 wickets for 10 runs. The game will be resumed at noon to-day, as it was arranged before the contest commenced that it should be played out. The traffic arrangements, both on Saturday and yesterday were admirable, and the visitors to the ground experienced little difficulty in getting back to the city in the evening.

THE PLAY.

A few minutes after 12 o'clock Horan and Evans resumed their innings, to the bowling of Palmer and Spofforth. Horan took the first strike, and put the second ball from Palmer to short leg for a single. A maiden to each bowler followed, and Horan then put Spofforth in the slips for another single. In Palmer's next over Horan hit the first ball to leg for 4, and 80 went up. Spofforth bowled a maiden to Evans, and Horan scored a brace off Palmer for a hit to mid-on. Evans drove Spofforth to the on for a single, and negotiated an over from Palmer without scoring. In "The Demon's" succeeding over Horan scored 4 for a straight hit, and Evans subsequently drove Palmer to the on for a single, Horan finishing the over by a long-leg hit for 4. (90 up.) A brace and a single to Evans, resulted from Spofforth, and the same batsman played Palmer without adding to the score. Horan then played Spofforth nicely to square-leg for a couple, and put the last ball in the slips for a single. A hit for two by Horan, off Palmer, brought the "century" up, and Horan hit a full pitcher from the same bowler to leg for 4. After a maiden from Spofforth to Evans, Boyle relieved Palmer at the southern end, and Horan drove the second ball of the over for a single; Evans placing the third ball nicely to square-leg for two. A maiden from Spofforth to Horan followed, and in Boyle's next over each batsman added a single, and the third ball went away for two leg-byes (110 up). Horan then drove Spofforth for a single, and added another single off Boyle, but in the same over Evans played back to the bowler, and was caught. (3-9-113.) Garrett followed, and the result of the next two overs was a single to Horan and a leg-bye. Horan then hit Spofforth towards the pavilion fence for two, and sent the last ball of the over to square-leg also for a brace. Garrett drove Boyle for a single, and another leg-bye was added in the same over. 120 runs had now gone up, and the next four overs produced only three singles. Garrett then got a chance at Spofforth, and hit him to the fence for 4. Horan put a ball from Boyle to leg for a brace, bringing 130 up; and in the Demon's next Garrett made a hit to the off, and the ball being returned out of the reach of Blackham went to the fence. The batsmen had already made two runs, and the overthrow brought the figure up to 6, which was placed to Garrett's credit. After a single by Horan off Boyle, Alexander relieved Spofforth at the northern end, and succeeded in getting Horan's wicket in the first over. (4-49-137.) The retiring batsman played a fine innings for his runs, and was deservedly applauded at the close. Midwinter now joined Garrett, who drove Boyle for a single. Midwinter put the same bowler in the slips for two, which brought 140 up. Garrett cut Alexander to the southern fence for 4, and Midwinter put Boyle to short-leg for a single. The players then adjourned for luncheon, the score standing at 4 wickets for 145 runs. Upon resuming, Alexander and Boyle bowled a maiden each, and Midwinter then drove the former for a single. In Boyle's next over Midwinter scored a single, and Garrett made a straight hit in the same over for two. The next half-dozen overs produced only a single to each batsman, and Midwinter then cut Alexander for a brace. Garrett, after hitting one from Boyle, made a fine drive off Alexander to the fence for 4, winding up the over with a cut for a single. The University player then scored a double and a single for cuts off Boyle, bringing 160 up; and the same batsman, after contributing another 4 by a beautiful clean cut to the terrace-fence, off Alexander, was bowled by the next ball of the over, and retired for a well-made 34. (5-34-166.) M'Shane followed, and opened in the same over with a hit to leg for a single. He then drove Boyle for another single, and Midwinter put the last ball of the over to long-off for a similar figure. After three maidens, a single by M'Shane off Boyle brought the score up to 170, and Midwinter drove the second ball for one. M'Shane then cut the last ball of the over, scoring four (one being for an overthrow), and Midwinter was very nearly run out. Immediately afterwards Spofforth relieved Boyle, and a few overs later M'Shane spooned a ball up to mid-off, giving a chance to Boyle, who failed to accept it. The score was quickly run up to 190, when Palmer relieved Alexander, and the score having been increased to 202, M'Shane was stumped by Blackham in Palmer's third over. (6-22-202.) Edwards succeeded M'Shane, and in the Demon's next over Midwinter sent the second ball to leg for two, and made a fine square-leg hit off the third for 3. Four singles and a couple of twos were obtained in the next half-dozen overs, and Boyle then took the ball from Spofforth and bowled a maiden to Midwinter. Edwards negotiated Palmer without scoring, and Midwinter hit Boyle to long-off for a single, Edwards putting the last ball to mid-on for 2. Midwinter then faced Boyle once more, and hit the third ball towards the grand stand fence for 3. Midwinter put Palmer to short-leg for a single, and in the same over Edwards by a fine cut added 3, which brought 230 on the board, the same batsman hitting Boyle to mid-off for a brace. Only a single to each batsman was obtained off the next four overs, and another change in the bowling was tried, Alexander taking the ball from Palmer. Two singles off Boyle, one to each batsman, were added, and in Alexander's second over Blackham appealed for a catch off Edwards, but the umpire decided not out. The batsman had, however, left his ground, and the wicket-keeper immediately took the bails off and Edwards was run out. (7-17-240.) D. Gregory now joined Midwinter, and opened with a cut off Alexander for a single. He then put Boyle to square-leg for 2, and soon afterwards Midwinter sent a ball from Alexander to the southern fence for 4. A single and a 2 to Gregory, with a single to Midwinter, increased the score to 251, and after each bowler had been credited with a maiden Midwinter made a hard drive back to Alexander, who held the ball. Midwinter played an admirable innings of 46, and was received with quite an ovation upon returning to the pavilion. (8-45-251.) Elliott filled the vacancy, and Alexander, changing ends, bowled a maiden to Gregory. Spofforth went on at the northern end, and Elliott put the first ball from "the Demon" to mid-on for a single. The same batsman added a single off Alexander for a drive, and Spofforth having bowled a maiden to Elliott, Gregory drove Alexander for two, and made a fine hit to long-off in the same over, scoring 4. At this stage of the game the combined team, with the start secured in the first innings, were 301 runs ahead. Elliott played the next over from Spofforth without scoring, and Gregory then drove Alexander twice—once for a brace, and on the second occasion for a single. He also hit Spofforth towards the pavilion fence for another single; and Gregory having safely negotiated an over from Alexander, Elliott hit Spofforth to the off for a single, and Gregory put the last ball to leg for 3. The same batsman, after adding a single off Alexander, made a fine square-leg hit off Spofforth to the grand stand fence, and a single to each batsman was also obtained in the same over. At 277 Boyle relieved Spofforth, and bowled a maiden to Elliott. In Alexander's next over the much-deserved separation was effected as Gregory hit a ball up to mid-off, and was caught by Murdoch. (9-25-277). Cooper was the last man in, and it was thought that an over or two would bring the innings to a close; but it turned out that the batsmen were not to be separated so soon. Elliott put Boyle in the slips for one, and then made a fine straight hit off Alexander to the southern fence for 4, bringing 280 on the board. A maiden was credited to each batsman, and Cooper then cut Boyle for a single, thus breaking his "duck egg." After three more maidens Elliott put Boyle to leg for a couple, and in the same over he gave an easy chance to Slight at mid-off, but the ball was dropped. Cooper now faced Alexander, and, to the surprise of everybody, hit the last ball to the southern fence for 4. Boyle, after bowling a maiden to Elliott, changed ends, with the apparent intention of disposing of Cooper, who, however, played the over safely. Palmer went on at the other end and bowled a maiden to Elliott, and in Boyle's next Cooper made a hit to the off and was smartly caught by Murdoch. The innings closed for the large total of 289, and Elliott carried his bat out for a well-earned 13. The bowling on behalf of the Australian team was undeniably good; but it was completely collared, and even Spofforth failed to get a wicket. The fielding was not up to Saturday's performance, and in a good many instances the ball was returned badly.

The Australian team, with the task set before them of making 331 runs, opened their innings about half-past 5 o'clock with A. Bannerman and Spofforth—M'Shane and Evans bowling. Bannerman took the first over from the former and spooned a ball to leg, giving a very difficult chance to Midwinter, which was not accepted. A single was scored for the hit, and in Evans' first over "the stonewaller" contributed another single for a hit to short-leg. Spofforth secured a single in the same over; but in M'Shane's next he hit the second ball to the off, and was caught by Massie. (1-1-3.) Groube succeeded him, but in M'Shane's fourth over played the third ball to short leg and was caught by Garrett. (2-0-3.) Slight followed, and opened off M'Shane with a drive for a single, four having been previously scored for byes. Two maidens to Evans and one to M'Shane, and then the latter bowled to Bannerman, who, off the last ball, was cleverly caught by Elliott behind the wicket while attempting a leg hit. (3-2-8.) Murdoch now joined Slight, who cut Evans for 2, and in M'Shane's next over the captain of the Australian team was very nearly caught out by the bowler. This brought the day's play to a termination, the Australian team having three wickets down for 10 runs, and being still 321 runs behind. The match will be resumed at noon to-day. The following are the scores:—

Mr. Pigott has given notice of the first motion, as follows:—"That, in the opinion of this House, the Government should, during the present session, if practicable, and not later than during the next session of Parliament, lay upon the table of this House all necessary plans, sections, estimates, and other information, and obtain the authority of Parliament for the extension of the railway from Renfern to Circular Quay." The next motion, by Mr. M'Elhone, is for correspondence respecting produce conveyed by rail. Mr. Farnell is to move the adoption of the report of the select committee on the petition of Mr. Cox. The next motion is by Mr. Pigott, that the Government will resume 100 acres of land at the South Head of Botany Bay for a public recreation ground. The motion of Mr. M'Elhone, for correspondence respecting the sheep and cattle traffic on the Southern line, comes next; after which Mr. Withers will move for a return showing the cost of dredging the several ports of the colony. Mr. Withers has also given notice that he will move that the Government should send for Colonel Mendell or some other competent engineer to report on the merits of the Prospect and Kenny Hill water schemes. Mr. Terry is to move for papers, &c., in connection with auriferous lands taken up by the late N. P. Bayley. Mr. Brunker will move that plans showing the areas available for purchase should be exhibited at all Government land offices. Mr. E. Barton will move for leave to be given to the Municipal Council of Leichhardt to appear by counsel before the Select Committee on the Balmain Cemetery Bill. The orders of the day comprise the resumption of the debate on the second reading of the Press Bill, the second readings of the Kurrajong Land Sale Bill and the Church of England Trust Property Incorporation Bill, and the consideration in committee of the Legislative Council's amendments in the Mount Kembla Railway Bill.

AMUSEMENTS.

M. HENRI KOWALSKI.

This distinguished pianist and composer made his first public appearance in Sydney at the Gaiety Theatre last night. The orchestra stalls were well patronized; but the many attractions in town seriously affected the other parts of the house. However, any deficiency in numbers was balanced by the enthusiasm of those present, and M. Kowalski may be congratulated on the hearty relations he so readily established with his auditors.

The programme contained five numbers composed by the pianist, two by Chopin, and one by each of the following composers—Handel, Scarlatti, Liszt, Prudent, Heller, and Gounod,—the Meditation on the prelude of Bach. Of these the most interesting to musical students were the Gavotte by Handel, and the Fuga Fantasia by Scarlatti, the latter really a series of variations on a subject of eight bars carried through every possible style. The dance of the fairies by Prudent is a very attractive solo, which contrasted excellently with the Scarlatti fugue, and secured a very decided encore. The Valse Caprice of Liszt is too familiar to need much comment. M. Kowalski's interpretation is a very vigorous one, and so commended itself to his listeners that an encore was insisted upon, when the popular melody "The Old Folks at Home" was made the motif of a brilliant fantasia. "Tristesse," one of Heller's many elegant pianoforte pieces, is, to our mind, less effective than many others; but this is no fault of the player. The treatment of Gounod's "Meditation" was, we think, an innovation which will not find favour. Many musicians have questioned the propriety of taste displayed by Gounod in thus using the Bach prelude. The vox populi has, however, so emphatically endorsed the action that it is useless for one section of the public to contend against it, and whether as a soprano solo with orchestra, or for violin, harmonium and piano, for 'cello and violins, and so on, it finds numerous admirers; but when Gounod and Bach combined are undertaken on the piano the effect is not good. The force used to bring out the melody on the pianoforte destroys the poetry of the whole thing; its ethereal character is lost, and the delicate beauty of the one sustained tone against the accompaniment disappears. This, in our opinion, was the least worthy of any effort of the great pianist. The Chopin numbers were disappointing. M. Kowalski is essentially a player of the French school. Chopin, though a resident for many years within the French capital, was anything but French in his music, the A flat major Polonaise, No. 8, op. 53, is particularly of the Poles and Polish in character; and therefore, while admitting the brilliancy of M. Kowalski's rendering, we miss the nationality, and protest against the extraordinary license in the time and occasionally in the text.

M. Kowalski is heard at his best in his own compositions. The first of these, the "Danse des Dryades," is Prudentish in character, but very pleasing; and the second subject, which is given out on the middle notes of the piano with abundant ornamental work in the right hand, and an arpeggio accompaniment for the left, is very taking. The Galop Bravoure is familiar to Sydney people. It was often played in public here by M. Jules Meilhan, particularly in the Garden Palace. The solo, "Dans les Bois," is one of those characteristic pieces in which a pianist displays his technical skill and his power of combining manual skill with poetic imagery; in the graceful turn he recalls the chirp of the songster of the woods, the runs suggest his flight through the shady groves, while their clearness betrays that the flight must be illumed with the summer sun. As encore, a waltz by Chopin was given. The most ambitious of M. Kowalski's numbers was the paraphrase on "Faust:" the soldier's chorus, old men's and old women's ditto, the flower song, and the tenor romance were introduced, with the most varied and effective ornamentation at the player's command. One very good number, "Les Cloches de Friebourg," was given as encore, and the "Marche Hongroise," a fine display of octave playing, constructed on a national Hungarian air, closed the performance.

M. Kowalski was most heartily received, and recalled again and again; and one young lady, daughter of a medical man of known musical tastes, presented the pianist with a handsome bouquet, to which the colours of the French Republic were attached. Much of the pleasure of listening was spoiled by an almost incessant grating noise, from the screw of the piano stool, the pedal, or from the platform, which seemed to groan under the weight of the Phillippe Herz Grand. M. Kowalski plays again to-night.

THE AUSTRIAN BAND.

The lighting of the Garden Palace for an evening entertainment is in itself a great novelty. This was done for the first time last night, when the Austrian Band gave an orchestral performance. Three large crowns of gas, one over the orchestra, one in the centre of the hall, and one at the end of the north nave, gave a fair amount of light, and a number of jets of gas and coloured balloons were lighted in different parts of the building, which however is so large that their brightness was not sufficient.

A large and fashionable audience, some 3000 persons, many of whom were ladies in concert attire, attended, and, although a notice was circulated to the effect that encores could not be entertained, one number, the overture to "Orphee aux Enfers," was re-demanded; the solo for the violin is enough to ensure this. The Rudolph's Klange waltz is one of those dainty rhythmic melodies which insensibly set people in motion; one longs to dance to music played with such a swing, and the absence of the cymbals made this and other solos so much more agreeable to the ear. We have already borne willing testimony to Herr Andrejewitch's skill on the bassoon, and can believe that his solo was well played, but twelve rows from the front it was inaudible, and probably not one-tenth of the audience could distinguish the solo tones; and this also applies to the 'cello solo by Herr Patok. It would seem that if an audience is unable to get a sufficient amount of musical sound the deficiency must be balanced, and when once any abatement of musical force is remarked, the balance is made up by incessant motion of feet and tongue, and promenaders begin their route. Notices in different darts of the building appeared, begging for silence during the music, but they were unheeded. The "wreath of melodies" was an extraordinary medley—"Zampa," "Martha," "Orpheus," "Faust," "Lucia," and "Trovatore," were a few of the operas appealed to; Mendelsohn's Lieder ohne Worte; galop with a good violin solo, and a melody sung by Fritz, with a horn solo. This brought the first part to a close with great eclat.

The second part opened with the "Entr' Acte," from Wagner's "Lohengrin," one of the most successful and effective numbers in the repertoire of the band. The massive instrumentation is most enjoyable; horns take up the melody, then the heavier brass join in, and clarionets and oboes produce a charming contrast. The "Village Swallows Waltz" has a pretty swinging motion, and the 'cello concerto was doubtless a treat for all who heard it; it excited great enthusiasm and applause, though the demand for repetition was wisely refused. The "Viennese Galop" was nothing more than any other piece in similar measure, but the overture to "La Nozze di Figaro" was faultless in execution, and simply delightful to the ear. The National Anthem brought the performance to an end at the hour named, 10 p.m.; and to judge from the opening concert, these entertainments promise to be great musical treats at a minimum of expense. It is to be hoped that those who a delight in walking will show a little consideration to the wishes of those who like to hear the music. A second concert will be given to-night.

BOROUGH COUNCIL.

ALEXANDRIA.—Meeting of Council held on 23rd February. Present—The Mayor, Mr. C. B. Henderson, and full Council. Letters from the Citizens Executive Committee, inviting the attendance of the Mayor and Town Clerk at a public meeting, to be held in the Temperance Hall, on Thursday, the 17th instant, was read and received. A letter from Mr. M'Namee was read, making application to have the footpath asphalted in front of Mrs. Hayes' shop and the Alexandria Hotel. Letter received, and the request granted. Letter from Mr. Hicks, requesting that the footpath be asphalted in front of his property in Jerrard-street. Letter received, and the application granted. A letter from Mr. T. J. Curtis, soliciting from this Council advertisements for insertion in the Redfern and Suburban Times. Read and received. The chairman of the Finance Committee (Alderman Jesson) brought up a report recommending the payment of sundry accounts, amounting to £69 17s., and moved the adoption of same. Seconded by Alderman Wood, and carried. The chairman of the Finance Committee also submitted an estimate of the probable amount that will be required for the new current year, which was adopted on the motion of Alderman M'Namee, seconded by Alderman Poskett. The report of the inspector of nuisances for the past fortnight was read and received. The Mayor moved,—"That the report of the Improvement Committee passed on the 28th July, 1880, for reballasting and blinding seven chains of Henderson Road, be altered, such alteration to be that the said work be carried into effect previous to any other permanent work in the municipality." Seconded by Alderman M'Namee, and carried unanimously. Moved by Alderman Poskett,—"That tenders be invited for supplying the Borough with road material and cartage for the current municipal year." Seconded by Alderman M'Namee, and carried unanimously. The Council then formed itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the tenders for valuers, and upon resuming the Mayor reported the tender of Messrs. Humphries and Reily accepted.—JAMES JONES, Council-clerk.

HANLAN AND LAYCOCK. — To show how completely deceived some of the aquatic critics were as regards Hanlan, we may quote the following specimen from the London correspondent of the Australasian, who wrote on December 31:—"I really believe Laycock is going to win the championship once more for Sydney. He is in splendid health, and is pulling better every day. Somehow I think he has a far better constitution than Hanlan, who lately has been a bit troubled with boils. It is quite useless my writing about their daily work, as both are doing their best to be fit on the day. Ross and Drewitt are looking after Hanlan, who returns to America 10 days after the championship match. Of course, I hope I shall be able to wire that Laycock has won, and I really do believe I shall, for his gameness is undoubted, his staying powers, too, indisputable, whilst his iron constitution is a gift possessed by few men breathing, as I heard a man say when he won the Hop Bitters—'Good man, did you say? I call him not a man at all, but a hoss.' If he can only be within five lengths of Hanlan at a mile and a-quarter, with Hanlan doing his best, he will win."

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—MONDAY, MARCH 7.

HEATON V. RICHARDS.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., instructed by Messrs. Slattery and Heydon, appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, watched on behalf of the defendant.

The plaintiff in this action, which was tried last sittings and resulted in a nonsuit, applied for a rule nisi calling upon the defendant to show cause why the nonsuit should not be set aside and a new trial, granted upon the following grounds, among others:—That the Chief Justice erroneously ruled—1, that there was no consideration proved to support the alleged contract between the plaintiff and the defendant; 2, that the whole benefit of the alleged contract between the plaintiff and the defendant was for the plaintiff; and 3, that the acceptance of certain manuscripts by the Government from the plaintiff imposed no proper care of the said manuscripts.

Shortly after the commencement of the arguments, his Honor Mr. Justice Windeyer retired from the bench, in consequence of his having been in the Ministry at the time of the making of the alleged contract. Mr. Justice Hargrave took his place.

The Court unanimously refused to grant the rule. The Government were asked to print and publish a book for the plaintiff, who offered to make good any outlay. It was conceded by the plaintiff's counsel that there was no valuable consideration moving to the Government, but it was urged that promising to pay, and placing the manuscript in the hands of the Government was a detriment to Mr. Heaton, and as such was sufficient consideration to support the contract. The Court thought otherwise. There was no detriment to the plaintiff, and there was no advantage to the Government such as would support the contract. It was a gratuitous undertaking on the part of the Government entirely for the benefit of the plaintiff, and the Government could at any time, when disposed, have declined to go on any further with the work without giving a right of action to the plaintiff.

Rule refused.

CAMPBELL V. THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

Mr. Foster and Mr. Pilcher, instructed by Mr. Fitzgerald, appeared for the plaintiff. Mr. Darley, Q.C., Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Sir George Innes, instructed by Messrs. Want, Johnson, and Scarvell, for the defendants.

This was an application on behalf of the defendants for a new trial in the above cause, on the grounds (1) that the verdict was against the evidence, (2) that the damages were excessive; and (3) that the Judge ought to have told the jury that there was no evidence of dispensation by the defendant company with a tender of the amount actually due.

On May 29, 1867, the plaintiff executed in favour of the bank a memorandum of mortgage under our Real Property Act, whereby he pledged, subject to a subsisting mortgage, four parcels of land, of which he was the registered proprietor in fee-simple under the provisions of the Act, for the purpose of securing the repayment of a cash credit of £5000, with interest at 9 per cent., to be paid or allowed with half-yearly rests. These parcels may be shortly described as the wharf property, the Coogee property, the warehouse property, and the Morpeth property. A prior and subsisting encumbrance, to secure £3000 and interest to Mr. Francis Michel and to Sir George Wigram Allen, was indorsed upon this mortgage. On February 28, 1870, the plaintiff executed in favour of the bank a similar memorandum of mortgage in the nature of a further charge upon all the properties mentioned in his previous mortgage to the bank, except the Morpeth property, for the purpose of securing the repayment of £1000 thereby acknowledged, and also of any further advances the bank might make to him, whether upon bills or upon promissory notes, with interest thereon. It was principally upon this latter mortgage that the defendants relied. Besides these, however, the bank held other securities. They held a mortgage upon a property of the plaintiff called Ballina, and they held an equitable mortgage under an agreement executed by the plaintiff on May 29, 1867, the date of the first-mentioned mortgage upon the jetties attached to the wharf property, which were not subject to the Real Property Act. This equitable mortgage was expressly limited, by a letter of even date from the defendants to the plaintiff, to £5000 and no more. During the years 1870 and 1871 Mr. Campbell and the Commercial Bank were in a state of chronic litigation. Mr. Campbell brought an action against the bank, and the bank brought an action against Mr. Campbell; and the result was that the bank recovered a judgment against him for over £10000. They took out execution, and seized, and were about to sell through the Sheriff, his interest in certain properties, including those which were the subject of the mortgage of May 29, 1867. The bank now had an execution in the plaintiff's house. In this state of things a negotiation for a settlement took place. Mr. Campbell agreed to release, and did release, his action. The bank agreed to abandon their proceedings in execution, but insisted on his executing, as he did, a legal mortgage of the jetties, with a power of sale. This legal mortgage was charged with £18,801 3s. 8d., instead of the original amount agreed upon. This charge over and above the original amount arose, according to the evidence of the bank, from an alleged liability caused by the plaintiff having endorsed bills, some of which were current at the time, and on a number of which the bank held collateral security from the makers. This agreement to settle all matters in dispute was embodied in two documents, dated June 16, 1871, by which the bank undertook to release Mr. Campbell "from all claim and demand on their part in respect of any liability which he might be under to them in respect of any balance of account;" and Mr. Campbell on his part agreed "to release, transfer, and surrender to the bank, his equity of redemption and interest in the wharf, King-street, Coogee, ship, and other properties respectively, now under mortgage to the company (except the Ballina property), and when required to execute any deed or documents necessary for effecting such release, transfer, and surrender." On the same day on which this agreement was signed by the parties Mr. Campbell signed a memorandum to the effect that all notices required by the Real Property Act had been duly given him by the bank. In this memorandum of waiver of notice, which is equivalent to a default after notice, the Coogee and warehouse properties were included, but the wharf property was not included. The bank now entered into possession. In October, 1872, they sold the Coogee property for £800; and on November 19, 1872, they contracted with Mr. Struth for the sale to him of the wharf and warehouse properties for £9000. There was no difficulty about the warehouse property, for that was included in the waiver of notice, but the Registrar-General objected that there was no waiver of notice as to the wharf property. The bank, therefore, tendered to Mr. Campbell for his signature, a further memorandum of waiver of notice as to the wharf property. At this time the bank had not given the release promised in their memorandum of June 16, 1871, and Mr. Campbell refused to execute this waiver of notice of the wharf property. The bank then proceeded to complete the sale of the wharf property in spite of Mr. Campbell, and on December 2?, 1872, served him with notice of sale under Sections 55 and 56 of the Real Property Act. This notice made a demand of £20,029 8s. 3d., as being due from Mr. Campbell to the bank, and that his property in the wharf would be gone if he did not pay that amount within a month. It was one of the points in this case whether this demand was not so far in excess of what was actually due as to amount to a dispensation of tender. On the expiration of the specified month the bank succeeded in obtaining from the Registrar-General the memorandum of transfer dated February 25, 1873, in favour of Mr. Struth. The legal effect of these transactions was to give Mr. Struth an indefeasible title in the wharf and warehouse properties, and to leave Mr. Campbell no remedy but that of an action for damages against the bank. Mr. Campbell, therefore, in 1876, brought his action. The declared cause of action was "that the defendants did not give to the plaintiff the notice required by the Real Property Act to which he was entitled; but, on the contrary, gave him a notice purporting to be according to the provisions of the Act, by which they demanded the payment to them of an amount of money much larger than the amount then due to them on the said memorandums of mortgage, and after giving such notice refused to receive from the plaintiff the amount of principal and interest which was then actually due on the said memorandums, although the plaintiff was always ready and willing and offered the defendants to pay the amount then actually due to them, and the defendants insisted upon the payment of the amount so aforesaid, for in excess of the amount then really due; and because the plaintiff would not pay the larger sum the defendants proceeded to, and did in fact, sell to one John Struth" the wharf property. On demurrer, the Full Court held that this statement amounted to an allegation that a tender of what was actually due had been dispensed with by the defendants. The material pleas to this declaration were that the bank did give the notice required by law, and that they did not dispense with tender of the amount actually due. The case was then tried before Mr. Justice Faucett and a jury of twelve, and it resulted in a verdict for Mr. Campbell, damages £3000. The bank appealed to the Full Court, with whose rulings each party was dissatisfied, and cross appeals went home to the Privy Council, whose judgment was in favour of the Bank, and a new trial was ordered. In August, 1880, the new trial was had before Sir William Manning and a jury of twelve, which resulted in a verdict again for the plaintiff, damages, £3500, and their verdict was,—inter alia—supplemented by these findings: (1) That from the circumstances connected with the notice of December 24, 1872, the jury inferred that the bank dispensed with a tender by the plaintiff of such amount, being less than £20,029 8s. 3d., as the plaintiff might have considered to be due; (2) that the release given by the plaintiff to the bank was obtained by undue pressure. Against this second verdict the bank appealed. The Full Court granted the rule nisi for a new trial on those grounds only which went to the question of dispensation. Mr. Darley, Q.C., now applied to make that rule absolute. Having referred to and explained the main features of the case, the plaintiffs' evidence was read, and was not concluded when the Court rose.

SMITH AND ANOTHER V. GARRY.—We have been requested to state that the estate in the above case was a small farm near Binalong, and had remained in the possession of the administrator, as the eldest son, ever since the father's death, and he had acted in loco parentis towards the two infant children for nearly twenty years.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—MONDAY.

(Before the CHIEF COMMISSIONER.)

In the matter of George R. Dibbs, for the further examination of witnesses, John Campbell Dibbs was examined by Dr. Donovan, instructed by Mr. Shepherd. Witness produced a copy of a bank deposit, marked exhibit A, showing particulars of some cheques he received from Mr. George Dibbs; he also produced a deposit slip, dated 28th November, 1879, marked exhibit B, showing particulars of a cheque of Mr. George Dibbs, for £671 13s, paid into the Commercial Bank at Newcastle at that date; the cheque marked "Vale" in exhibit A was not one of those received from Mr. George Dibbs; he could not say upon what bank this cheque was drawn; looking at exhibit A, the two cheques of Hewison's referred to therein were remitted to witness by Mr. George Dibbs on or about the date of the exhibit for coal sold by him on witness's account; as far as witness could recollect there were drafts of Simpson, of Adelaide, on Hewison, Newcastle, and the cheques were given by Hewison for these drafts to Mr. George Dibbs, who remitted them to witness; looking at exhibit B, the cheque referred to therein was a remittance from Mr. George Dibbs for proceeds of coal sold on witness's account; he could not recollect at the moment whether he had any dealing in September, 1879, or about that time, with Mr. George Dibbs, for castor oil; he did not recollect applying to the Oriental Bank about that time for the liberation of certificates for oil; nor did he recollect receiving about the end of September, 1879, 46 tanks of oil; after having had read to him a memo., per E. G. Sayers, for G. R. Dibbs, dated 29th September, 1879, and addressed to the Manager of the Oriental Bank, he must say he had no recollection of the matter at all; he could not recollect getting the certificates of oil, nor any one else getting such certificates. Richard Newman, examined by Dr. Donovan stated: He was manager of Dibbs's Wharf, and had been so since July, 1879; in 1879 he received two orders from the Commercial Bank to deliver metal; he thought the whole of this metal was from the Commercial Bank, and was delivered to G. R. Dibbs and Co. or their order; the metal ex Juno, referred to in an order dated 22nd July, 1879, was delivered partly to J. Broomfield, and some of it to J. Keep, between July 22 and August 7, 1879; witness would search his books, and furnish the official assignee with full particulars of the respective quantities of metal referred to in these orders; he produced orders from the Oriental Bank to him for the delivery of castor oil, ex Alexandra, to G. R. Dibbs or order; he also produced a letter dated 5th June, 1880, from the Oriental Bank to him; he would undertake to furnish the official assignee during the present week with particulars showing the delivery of the various parcels referred to in these orders, including the names of individuals; forty cases and 10½ hogsheads of Madeira wine came to Dibbs's Wharf on 3rd July, 1879, ex Serapis, and were stored there; with the exception of 4 cases the wine was still there; one of those four cases was delivered to Mr. George Dibbs shortly after the wine was landed, one was delivered to Mr. Sayers, one to Mr. Ives, and one to the Sydney Parcel Delivery Company, the last delivery being on the 23rd December, 1879; the thirty-six cases were transferred to Bernard Levinger, broker, on April 2, 1880, the transfer being made to him in order to complete a sale which had since fallen through; there were no other goods stored at the present time on G. R. Dibbs' wharf; the last goods removed from the wharf were removed in April or May, pursuant to order of G. R. Dibbs and Co.; witness would allow the official assignee to obtain from his (witness's) books any particulars desired respecting shipments of goods. Mr. Richard Daintree, a solicitor of the Supreme Court, examined by Dr. Donovan, deposed that his firm prepared the legal assignment of Mr. G. R. Dibbs; they received instructions in the matter a very short time before; he did not remember seeing either of the trustees before the deed of assignment was executed; he did not know that the sum of £250 had been paid to the firm on the 2nd March—he knew nothing whatever about it; the books at his office would show whether it was the case or not; he knew nothing about the sum of £85 10s. being paid to his firm on the 10th March; there was the sum of £500 paid to his firm about the 8th April; it was placed on his table by Mr. G. R. Dibbs, all in notes, and Mr. Chapman came in immediately afterwards; he believed it was on the 10th April; if he remembered right, it was to pay certain counsel's fees; he gave no receipt for that money; he had frequently asked Mr. Dibbs for money on account of costs; Mr. Dibbs was liable to the firm for a greater amount than that for costs at the time; in the deed of assignment the firm was put down for £700 as owing to them; he had some title-deeds of land belonging to G. R. Dibbs at Waverley, near the old windmill, it was leasehold land; it was originally dated 1st May, 1878, from Eugene Croft to William Andrews; by assignments that land was vested in G. R. Dibbs; the last assignment was registered on the 15th September, 1878; he got that deed from Mr. G. R. Dibbs at the time the assignment was made, it was registered by his firm; he was aware that the deed of assignment did not contain any mention of his firm holding those deeds as security for their debt; he did not know what was in the schedule of the deed before he signed it; it was not until after the insolvency that he was aware he held that deed; he knew nothing of any other sum being received for costs from Mr. G. R. Dibbs from March up to the time of the sequestration; it was a matter for consideration whether he claimed any lien under that deed of assignment of lease. Mr. Frederick Chapman, formerly a partner of Mr. Daintree, was then examined: The partnership between him and Mr. Daintree was dissolved in April last; he recollected executing a deed of assignment in Mr. G. R. Dibbs's estate; he personally received no instructions from Mr. G. R. Dibbs for the preparation of that deed; Mr. G. R. Dibbs did not speak to him immediately before the preparation of that deed; he believed the deed was prepared by their clerk, Mr. Gilder, under Mr. Daintree's instructions; he knew of the preparation of that deed about three or four days beforehand; he recollected the taxation of costs in the action Shepherd v. Dibbs; he attended on behalf of his firm; he could not say he knew then of Mr. Dibbs's intention to execute the deed of assignment; Mr. Daintree for many years had supervised the conveyancing business of the firm; Mr. Gilder made no communication to him before that deed was prepared, about the matter; at that time his firm were large creditors of Mr. G. R. Dibbs for costs; he did not know that there was any writing between any of the Messrs. Dibbs and the firm of Daintree and Chapman respecting the liability for costs; he produced a journal of Daintree and Chapman containing an entry dated March, 1880 G. R. Dibbs, account costs, £250; he was the recipient of all moneys paid to the firm; he could not say how the money was paid; he could not recollect whether it was the cheque of T. A. Dibbs; he had no doubt his firm had asked Mr. Dibbs for payment several times before that; he had an entry in his book, 10th April, 1880, Mr. G. R. Dibbs, £500; he could not say whether he gave a receipt for the money. The further examination was adjourned until Thursday next.

PETERSON V. PALING.

In this case Frederick Peterson sued W. H. Paling for breach of contract, in not hiring a piano to him as per agreement, and obtained a verdict for £2.

HIMMELHOCH V. GODWIN.

In this case Isaac Himmelhoch sued J. S. Godwin for having wrongfully deprived him of six guns, a press, three tents, and two hammocks. Mr. Rogers appeared for plaintiff; Mr Manning for defendant. This was a case of trover. The plaintiff's case was that he purchased the goods from Barton de la Breteche in the Exhibition, and had them ticketed as having been sold to him, but that he promised to resell them to Breteche if he desired it. Subsequently Breteche gave defendant a bill of sale on the goods, which were subsequently taken to the French consulate, from which defendant obtained them on giving the consul an indemnity. The plaintiff claimed £200, and obtained a verdict for £150.

M'CULLOCH V. BURKE.

In this case A. H. M'Culloch sued William Burke, jun., for that he, by Matthew Ward, his servant, so drove certain horses and an omnibus along York-street that they were forced against the horse and buggy of the plaintiff, whereby the buggy was damaged, and a sealskin rug and other goods were lost or damaged; and the plaintiff claimed £200. It seemed that the driver of the buggy had drawn up in the rank near the kerbing in York-street, and was waiting for the theatre to come out, when the horses and omnibus, on being turned, were driven into the buggy, causing the damage complained of. Mr. Rogers, instructed by Mr. Carruthers, appeared for plaintiff; Mr. Simpson, instructed by Messrs. Gannon and M'Laughlin, for defendant. His Honor gave a verdict for £25 for repairs, and £10 for the value of the sealskin rug.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted yesterday, on the Criminal side by Messrs. Hunt and Hardie; and on the Summons side by Messrs. Alexander, Bull, Fraser, Davies, and Guy.

Thomas Green, charged with having entered a tramway car while in motion in Belmore Gardens, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s., or to be imprisoned seven days. It transpired that he was under the influence of drink at the time of the offence, and very narrowly escaped from falling under the carriage.

Michael Hanrahan was convicted of having assaulted constable Naylor, and for his offence was sentenced to pay a penalty of £5, or to be imprisoned one month.

John M'Nally was found guilty of having, in view of a constable, assaulted a lad named Frederick Nichols, and was ordered to pay a penalty of 20s., or to be imprisoned seven days.

James Moore, alias Moran, and John Roher, suspected persons, were convicted, on the evidence of detective Dunlop, of frequenting Elizabeth-street with intent to commit a felony. The prisoners were seen to go to a man lying drunk in Elizabeth-street, near Market-street, Roher acting as watchman while Moore examined by feeling the pockets of the man; but when he attempted to put his hand into the man's pocket he was too rough and awoke the man, who called out that he was being robbed. Dunlop and constable Baker, who had been looking on, ran upto the man, and the prisoners took to their heels. They were pursued and locked up. The drunken man, however, went away while the police were engaged with the prisoners. They were sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Moore or Moran was further charged with having assaulted constable Baker by striking him about the body, pulling out his hair, and scratching his face. For this offence he was further sentenced to be imprisoned two months.

Charles Green, convicted of having been found frequenting Market-street on Sunday night with intent to commit a felony, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Elizabeth M'Mahon, convicted of vagrancy, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

William Farley, 14, was fined 5s. for endangering public safety by wantonly throwing stones in Hyde Park.

Alfred Cook and Alexander Burns were called upon to account for their possession of a quantity of zinc, and failing in the attempt were sentenced to pay 20s. each, or to be imprisoned seven days.

In the Summons Court small fines were imposed in several trivial cases.

WATER POLICE COURT.

The Water Police Magistrate was assisted in the Charge Court yesterday by Messrs. Perdriau, Lester, and Hales, and in the Summons Court by Messrs. Lester, Goodridge, Moses, and Penfold.

Sidewell Prendergast, 75 years of age, and an old offender, was sent to gaol for six months, for having no lawful visible means of support.

A number of unimportant cases were disposed of.

Messrs. Penfold and Moses, J.s.P., sat hearing evidence in the Bechet case. Sergeant Flaherty and Mr. C. Brown were the witnesses examined.

In our Water Police Court report of Thursday it was stated that Samuel Bird and Daniel Noonan were each fined on the charge of cruelty to a horse. The charge was cruelty in allowing dogs to fight.

NEWTOWN POLICE COURT.

Yesterday, before Dr. Tucker, J.P.,

James Kent, charged with riotous conduct, was fined 20s., or seven days' imprisonment; and for obscene language he was fined 20s., or seven days' imprisonment, cumulative.

Robert Thompson, for wilful damage to chairs and pictures, the property of Mary Dumett, to the value of 60s., was ordered to forfeit 60s., or undergo one month in gaol.

CORONER'S INQUESTS.

The City Coroner held an inquest yesterday, at his office, touching the death of Edward Stumbke. The evidence adduced showed that deceased was a native of England, but of German parentage, and had been in the colony about 15 months. He was, so far as is known, a single man and about 37 years of age. He drank occasionally or late, but not to excess. On Friday last he seemed as if he were going out of his mind, and he was recommended by Mr. Samuel Cross, who had an office in the same buildings as deceased carried on his business as engraver in, to go and see a medical man, but refused to do so, saying he was all right. He then went on with his work. He was last seen alive by William Alexander Merryfield, who was in his employment, and who left the premises about 6 o'clock. About 8 o'clock in the evening, however, he was heard by one of the inmates of the house pacing up and down his room. When Merryfield returned to deceased's room, at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, he found no one in it, but there was written on the table in chalk, "It is not true," which Merryfield believed to be Stumbke's writing, and to refer to a delusion he had been labouring under—viz., that a letter had appeared in the Herald saying he was drunk. On inquiry Merryfield learned that Stumbke was on the roof of the house, and had apparently made his way there through the skylight at the top of the stairs, the glass having previously been knocked out. Constable Chicken, after examining the skylight, and finding that he could not see Stumbke, owing to the double roof, went for assistance, and soon returned with another constable. In the meantime, however, Merryfield had gone out on to the roof, but before he could get to Stumbke the latter had jumped off of the pavement below. The jury returned a verdict of felo-de-se.

An inquest was held at the Coroner's Office yesterday afternoon, touching the death of a man named George Pound, who died at the Infirmary on Friday afternoon. The evidence showed that constable Fogwell arrested Pound on Thursday, about half-past 5 o'clock in the afternoon, on a charge of drunkenness, and locked him up at the Central Police Station. When arrested Pound was in a very drunken state, and only had on a shirt, a dust-coat, and pair of socks. During the night he seemed to be suffering very much from the effects of drink, and several doses of "delirium mixture" were administered to him by the officials—that is a powder left in their care for that purpose by the police surgeon, Dr. Egan; Pound, however, grew worse until morning, when Dr. Egan was sent for, and came and prescribed for him; he was then recovering from the effects of a fit of an epileptic character, and was very low; after waiting until he rallied, Dr. Egan ordered his removal to the Infirmary. He was taken to that institution by constable Timbs, and received by the gatekeeper, Francis Pearson, who, as the medical officer was not present, had him removed at once to the ward under the care of nurse Elizabeth Reuter. This was at twenty minutes to 1 o'clock. The nurse expected the doctor to come every minute; but as he did not come, and her patient became worse, she went at 10 minutes to 2 o'clock and informed Dr. Moffitt herself, and he came at once and prescribed for him, but without avail, as the patient died at 4 o'clock the same afternoon. The nurse stated that it was not her duty to have informed the doctor of the admission of the patient, and Pearson said he should have done so, as it constituted a part of his duty, but being very busy at the gate he had forgotten it. Under the circumstances, the coroner dispatched a messenger for Mr. H. D. Russell, the secretary of the Infirmary, who came and stated that, as a general rule, one of the resident medical officers admitted patients, but in their absence it was Pearson's duty to admit them, and to communicate the fact to the doctor immediately afterwards. Pound was proved to have been drinking since Christmas, and had previously to that been confined in the receiving-house at Darlinghurst for medical treatment, as he was suffering from the effects of drink. He was between 45 and 50 years of age, and has left a wife and two children, the former being at present confined in Darlinghurst gaol on a charge of drunkenness. The jury found that death had resulted from natural causes, accelerated by continued acts of intemperance; and added a rider to the effect that Francis Pearson, the gatekeeper, was censurable for not informing the medical officer immediately after Pound was admitted; and they were further of opinion that the Infirmary authorities should take the necessary steps to ensure the medical officers receiving immediate information of the admission of all patients.

NOT GENERALLY KNOWN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—It is a matter not commonly known, but yet very nearly concerning the public, the fact that all the Australian ecclesiastical archives, say the records of the births, deaths, and marriages, from the foundation of the colony up to a comparatively recent period, have been for upwards of half a century, and so continue, under the sole, exclusive control of Mr. Kerrison James, formerly an officer of the Church of England, notwithstanding the many attempts, amicable and otherwise, to secure them, for the service and benefit of the rising generation, by their transference to the Government Registry, and Mr. James' well-known willingness so to dispose of them.

It is understood that the non-payment of the consideration, the amount of which was years ago determined by Crown law officers, is the sole cause of the delay; and if so, it is high time that a settlement took place, as urged by a former Registrar-General (Mr. Christopher Rolleston).—Vide Parliamentary Returns. ROUTE OF THE PROPOSED ILLAWARRA RAILWAY.

In compliance with a requisition presented to the Mayor of Canterbury, a meeting of residents and ratepayers of that municipality was held last evening to take into consideration the best means of inducing the Government to construct the Illawarra railway via Canterbury. Mr. J. Campbell Sharp, Mayor of Canterbury, occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance.

The CHAIRMAN explained the objects of the meeting, and stated that he believed to carry the Illawarra railway somewhere between Canterbury and the western boundary of the borough of Marrickville would conduce most to the public interests. The proposed route by way of Sans Souci would carry the line through a country of quagmires. The Canterbury route would be the most picturesque and most economical. At the same time he believed that the Government would adopt the route that would best serve the public good, without regard to local prejudices and influences, and such a route he believed this to be. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. M. H. LAUCHLAN proposed,—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, the great need of the railway from Sydney to Illawarra has become apparent, and it should be carried out without delay." He maintained that the people of the Canterbury district had strong claims upon the consideration of the Government. The Government had decided that a tramway should run via St. Peters to Cook's River dam, and another through Marrickville to what was known as the Warren gates. The wants of the Canterbury district had been quite overlooked, and all this time the people of that district had remained quiet, for they fairly anticipated that their wants would have been served by the Illawarra railway. (Cheers.) Now, however, when they found that the people on the other side wanted not only the two tramways, but also the railway, it was high time the residents of this district asserted their claims. (Cheers.)

Mr. F. WILLIAMS seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. H. ST. JOHN BELL proposed,—"That, in the opinion of this meeting, the cheapest and best route should be decided on, and that a line diverging from the present main line near Petersham, to and by the old Canterbury Sugar Works, there crossing Cook's River and proceeding by Cup and Saucer Creek on to the west of Bexley heights is the best and cheapest route which can be selected."

Mr. J. H. LEGGE seconded the motion. There was no part of the suburbs of Sydney better fitted for building purposes than Canterbury, and all it needed was communication. (Cheers.) It was a rich district, and remarkably picturesque, and offered a splendid outlet for the surplus population of Sydney. (Cheers.) The proposed route was an easy and practicable one, and considering the great and valuable resources of the district, a railway passing through Canterbury would be productive of great benefit to the populations of both Sydney and this suburb. (Cheers.)

Mr. W. REDMAN supported the resolution, and hoped that the people of Canterbury would no longer deserve the appellation of "Sleepy Hollow." (Hear, hear.)

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. W. L. DAVIS moved,—"That a deputation consisting of the representatives of this electorate, the Mayor, and two or three aldermen of the municipality, and that Dr. Tucker, Messrs. J. Kinloch, F. Clissold, M. H. Lauchlan, W. M. Forbes, J. H. Legge, J. S. Jamieson, and P. Stanley, shall be authorized and requested to wait upon the Ministers to represent the opinions of this meeting, and to urge upon them the superior claims hereby advocated, and the advisability of a prompt survey being made of the proposed route."

Mr. PIGOTT, M.L.A., in moving a vote of thanks to the chairman, said that he would not pledge himself to any particular route; but he would hear everything that might be said in favour of each route. He would, however, go so far as to say that most certainly Canterbury ought to have better means of communication with the city than it now possessed, whether it was to be a line of railway or a tramway he would not say.

Mr. HENSON, M.L.A., in supporting the motion, said that he had for years thought that it would eventually be necessary to divide the Southern and Western traffic, and the best way in which that could be done would be by a line through Canterbury. (Cheers.) He believed that eventually the route adopted would be between that proposed by the people at Gannon's Forest, and that proposed by the people of Canterbury. (Cheers.)

The motion for a vote of thanks was carried, and suitably acknowledged by the chairman.

THE SEWERAGE OF THE SOUTHERN SLOPES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—The Government having, thanks to the agitation set on foot by the Sanitary Reform League, abandoned their proposal to discharge the sewerage of the southern slopes into Shea's Creek, and polute the atmosphere of that place and the surrounding localities, now declare their intention of carrying out their original plan to convey the sewage to Webb's grant, which is to be the site for the proposed sewage farm. This is certainly a change for the better for which we should be thankful, as the present comparatively isolated position of Webb's grant will greatly diminish the nuisance. But this scheme, although an improvement upon the other will, in no way relieve the low-lying portions of Sydney, where the sewage locally produced must still find its way into the harbour, with all its impurities, and will, after the lapse of a few years, prove a failure.

I find upon reference to the reports of the late Sewage and Health Board, that "the cost of further extending the sewer to Webb's grant, together with syphon pipes across Cook's River, and 100 acres of land for filtration farm, would be £80,000, or £211,000 in all." I leave it to the residents in the vicinity of the projected farm to express their opinion on the excellence of the scheme. They are principally market gardeners, and may find the odour refreshing. Certainly if nothing but the wholesale discharge of this noxious matter into the sea is to be accepted, it will be better to filter it through a sandy tract of ground before allowing it to escape, as in that case a large portion of its impurity will no doubt be intercepted for a time. My objections are against the water-carriage system altogether—the waste of a valuable fertilizer, and the certain pollution of the coast in a greater or less degree by such discharge; and I think the Sanitary Reform League have been treated with scant courtesy when the recommendation of Captain Liernur's Company's offer to introduce their system into a portion of Sydney—finding their own capital, and giving reasonable assurance for the successful carrying out of the system—has met with no recognition from the Government. Ample evidence has been adduced to show that the pneumatic system has been a success in other places, and that in a hygienic point of view it is infinitely superior to any other known system of drainage; and I submit that the offer made by the company, which is quoted in full in your issue of the 19th November last, deserves prompt and serious attention, and should not, in common justice, be passed over without any test or inquiry into its merits.

I am induced to bring this matter again before the public, in consequence of a paragraph in the Herald of the 3rd instant, in which it is stated, on the authority of Professor Reuleaux, that the Liernur system has only been adopted on a comparatively small scale in a part of Amsterdam, and that he has never heard that other cities have adopted it. These statements are both erroneous, as must be apparent to any one who has read the correspondence which has taken place on the subject. The various towns in which it is in operation, with the population of each town, have been quoted, and the results of the system, financial and otherwise, have been shown to compare favourably with other systems of drainage; and as the proposal of the Sanitary Reform League is that its efficiency should be tested by accepting the offer of Captain Liernur to introduce it into one of the low-lying portions of Sydney not included in the Government scheme, I repeat that the interests of the citizens of Sydney have not been consulted by ignoring the offer altogether.

If the system alleged to be in practice in half the towns of Berlin referred to in the above-mentioned paragraph were to be adopted here, an epidemic would infallibly break out directly the hot weather commenced.

"It consists in mixing the effluvia at once in outhouses, kitchens, &c., with plenty of water, and this fluid having been conveyed to the deepest parts of the outskirts of Berlin is taken up by pumping machinery at ten different stations scattered in a circle round the centre of the town, and driven out through three feet wide pipes from three to seven miles from the capital, where the farms to be watered are situated."

Comment upon such a nasty system is superfluous. If it were adopted in this climate the population of the city would be decimated in no time from the continual escape of poisonous gases.

On the other hand, the great merit of the pneumatic system is that from first to last there is an absolute certainty that no elements of disease, whether gaseous, fluid, or in any other form, ever escape to produce infection; and instead of the daily "mixing of the effluvia in outhouses, kitchens, &c." which Professor Reuleaux advocates, the sewage is carried off in hermetically closed pipes, and the occupant of a house need not necessarily be aware that it is being done.

I think I have made out a case for the trial of the pneumatic system on a small scale, or at least for a more thorough investigation into its merits and demerits. I will conclude with an extract from the report of the building survey committee to the Council of Leyden, where the Liernur system was introduced in 1870, and where it is still in operation. In 1873 they state:—"We can find no complaint against the system. It works regularly; the closets are emptied daily, without the slightest annoyance to the residents; no gases of a hurtful nature can be traced, and the sewage is worked up into manure and largely used. We look upon this system as that of the future for large towns."—Yours, &c.,

BENJAMIN BACKHOUSE,

Sydney, March 7. Hon. Sec. Sanitary R. League.

The proposal of the Canadian Ministers for carrying out the Pacific Railway scheme were agreed to on January 6 without a vote, in accordance with an arrangement between the Government and the leaders of the Opposition. The debate on the question lasted for some days, and it was announced that a new syndicate, other than the one with which the Government had made arrangements, was willing to complete the undertaking on more advantageous terms, but the Government scheme will now be the one adopted.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH have received instructions from the Executors of the late W. A. Dumaresq., Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, Sydney, on THURSDAY, the 31st APRIL next,
at 11 o'clock,
The above valuable and highly improved Pastoral and Agricultural Estate.

THE FREEHOLD ESTATE, which adjoins the Glen Innes Town boundary, contains 12,000 acres (more or less) of purchased land, and is supplemented by 13,000 acres, more or less, of pre-emptive leased land, forming of rich land, nearly all the freehold consisting of open plains of deep black soil, fit for any sort of agriculture. The remaining country is principally plains and lightly-timbered forest, chiefly white gum and yellow box. The water supply is ample, having the Furracabad Creek flowing through the property from end to end, about 17 miles, the waters of which have never been known to cease running even in the driest season. An additional supply is obtained from several permanent tributaries to the Furracabad; and other parts of the run are abundantly watered by several springs.

The improvements are of far too extensive a character to be fully enumerated within the limits of an advertisement; mention will therefore be only made of such as are of importance to the satisfactory working of the property, viz.:—

The HOMESTEAD at the head station (built on freehold, portion 6) is a large and comfortable brick-built residence, with two long verandahs; it contains hall, dining and drawing rooms, principal bedroom, dressing-room, bathroom, nursery (one sitting and two bedrooms), storeroom, &c. Two wings, built of hardwood, contain kitchen, three good bedrooms, 4 rooms for servants, dairy, two large stores, laundry, servants' hall, meat and tool rooms, &c. The homestead is surrounded by an ornamental shrubbery, and kitchen garden, well stocked.

The outbuildings include storekeeper's hut of two rooms, forge, stable of four loose boxes and six stalls, harness-room, coach-house and hayloft; also superintendent's cottage, of weatherboard; it contains five rooms, with detached kitchen of three rooms; stable for two horses, coachhouse, store, and garden.

The WOOLSHED, fitted with lever press, has accommodation for seventeen shearers, cover for 1000 sheep and about sixty bales wool. Amongst the many other improvements need only be mentioned shearers' huts, farm overseer's cottage, two haysheds 90 x 132 feet. The one close to the stable has a large chaff-room, with horse-power, &c.

The Stockyard is capable of working 400 Head of Cattle at one time, and the other improvements comprise every requisite for the thorough working of such an extensive and valuable property with comfort and economy.

PADDOCKS.

This accommodation is of unusual extent, in fact nearly the whole Estate, freehold and pre-emptive, may be said to be substantially enclosed, and subdivided as follows, viz.:—

Surrounding the homestead are—
4 small paddocks, from 1 to 15 acres, all richly grassed.
2 cultivation, 25 and 40 acres, laid down with Lucerne and English grasses
1 cultivation, 45 acres, chiefly under wheat.
2 grass, of about 500 acres each.
1 ditto ditto, 70 ditto, all fenced with rails and wire.
1 grass paddock, of about 2500 acres, 3 sides top-rail and 5 wires, partition fence 6 wires. Improvements: Hut and large yard.
1 grass, of about 1500 acres, 6 wires. Improvements: Shingled hut of 3 rooms, good well, and a large 4-railed sheep yard.
1 grass, of about 2300 acres, 6 wires. Improvements: Sheep overseer's cottage of 4 rooms, detached kitchen and bedroom, 2-stall stable, coachhouse, hayloft, milking yard, &c.; garden with fruit and ornamental trees, and horse paddock of 25 acres, enclosed by rail and 5 wires.
1 grass, of about 2400 acres (a few hundred acres in this paddock have been sapped).
1 grass, of about 3600 acres, 6 wires, 20 acres enclosed and cultivated, and there are several other improvements within its boundaries.
1 grass, of about 4000 acres, 3 sides 6 wires, 1 side top-rail and 5 wires.
The timber on upwards of 3000 acres of the above paddocks, principally freehold land, has been sapped, and on other parts of the run, both freehold and leasehold, portions have also been ring-barked.
The above paddocks aggregate an area of over 17,800 acres, and all the fencing is of the best description, and now is in good order.

The stock to be sold with the above estate is as follows, viz.:—

☞ The provisions of the will of the late W. A. Dumaresq's estate necessitate the above important estate being realized under the hammer; and capitalists looking out for an investment in one of the leading and most improved estates in the fertile and healthy district of New England should not fail to bear this fact in mind, that Furracabad must be disposed of to the highest bidder on the day named, and to make their arrangements accordingly. Every facility will be afforded on the estate for thoroughly viewing it, its stock, and improvements; and letters of introduction to the superintendent in charge will be given on application to the auctioneers.

An inspection is invited.
